1985 GRIZZLY

Butler County Community College El Dorado, Kansas 67042

Bears bare BCCC history

A "pause in time" can be recalled in Butler's 57 year history by the "paws" in time recorded in the traditional yearbooks produced on the campus of the college since 1928 when "The Grizzly Growl," the first college yearbook, made its debut with the completion of the first year of El Dorado Junior College's existence.

Since that time, the grizzly bear complete with his tracks has appeared in every annual. He has appeared as a fierce bear, a kindly bear, and even as a teddy bear, but he has never failed to appear.

History does not seem to have recorded how the grizzly was chosen in the first place, but this unique five-toed specie of the bear family has represented every aspect of Butler County Community College's life since those days that the college got off to a wobbly start in September of 1927.

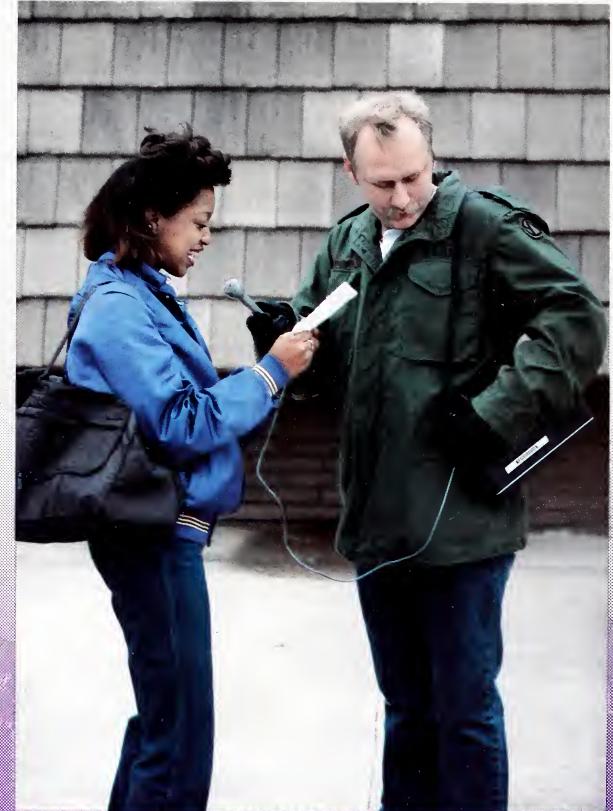

Originally, the domain of the grizzly bear extended from the Arctic circle to the plains of Kansas although it was extinct in Kansas long before BCCC's predecessor chose it to be the mascot for the college.

The National Audubon Society reports that "it (grizzly) now roams freely only in national parks in the United States." Evidently the Society had not checked out the campus at Butler because grizzly bears are roaming freely, sitting quietly, studying in the Library, munching in the Student Union, driving automobiles, and playing sports or so it would seem from all the grizzly bear emblems that decorate students and campus.

STUDENT LIFE

Student life at BCCC means many things to many people since students' ages vary from 18 to 80.

The nucleus for college social activities is usually formed by campus dormitory residents and other local residents rather than by the commuter students. Student life for the commuters is usually academically oriented.

Sports related activities attract a number of people whether as a participant or as a spectator. The football Homecoming festivities brought together hundreds of participants in October.

Many students attend BCCC on music, sports, drill team, cheer leading, drama, and other participating scholarships; and all of these people are active in campus activities. Their student lives are involved.

Dormitory residents held the first annual "Drag King and Queen" contest in the fall for a new college activity. Dances in the Student Union attracted a number of students throughout the year.

Much social life centered around sitting in the late summer and early fall sunshine and visiting. Congregated at two p.m. in the Student Union were the faithful fans of "General Hospital."

Students as a whole did not seem to be too interested in the national political elections according to reports from media interviews on the campus.

BCCC's Bookstore was especially busy in the early fall selling items marked by Butler's purple and gold colors and the grizzly emblem to new students. Student life is varied at the college but all the students like to be identified as belonging by sporting the official insignias.

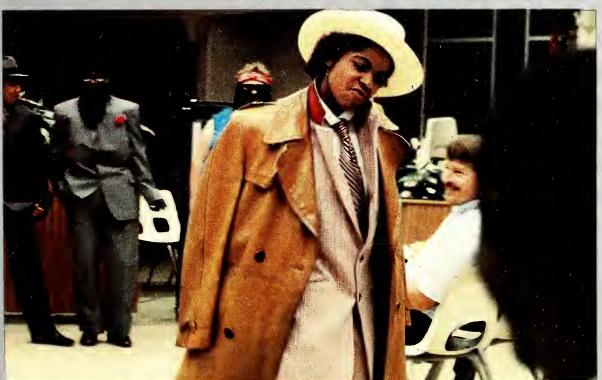

Tracy Bowles and Kim Grant get prepared to strut their stuff at the first annual Dorm Drag King and Queen Contest held on October 10, in the cafeteria. Jay Ollenberger, Herington freshman, demonstrates his graceful body movements which helped him to become the 1984 Dorm Drag Queen. Shayna (Chili Sauce) Robinson portrays a New York City pimp as she makes her way around the cafeteria. Even with a hairy chest and legs, Chicago sophomore Mark Jones holds his composure after losing his wig during the contest.

"Go Gold"

"Go for the gold" was the theme for this year's Homecoming, and that's exactly what the Grizzlies did, winning over Garden City 54-7 on Homecoming day, October 13. Dresscode suggestions for each day preceded the homecoming ceremonies. Students wearing pyjamas, tuxedos, or glamorous dresses enlivened the campus look. Some students dressed up as nerds.

In spite of the KU versus K-State game, which was held the same day, the stadium at the Community Athletic Field was full. Not only the game attracted the audience but also the pregame ceremonies which included crowning of the king and queen, Joel Johnson and Carla Armstrong. The Headliners sang and the Honeybears did a dance routine during half-time.

The float constructed by the band won first place and second place was won by Phi Beta Lambda. The intramural sports entry took third place. Cash prizes were given.

A dance held in the Butler Cafeteria concluded the festivities

Homecoming Day

Activities

Keith Majors, Dallas sophomore, gets a few more yards against Garden City. Majors had 15 carries for 118 yards and two touchdowns in the Homecoming contest. Carla Armstrong, Augusta sophomore, and Joel Johnson, Towanda sophomore, Homecoming queen and king, reign at the game. Clayton "Flipper" Whitfield gives an impromptu demonstration of his gymnastic abilities to an enthusiastic audience. James McKee, Wichita freshman, leads yells at the game on a sunny October afternoon.

The Butler Jazz Arts organization opened the 1984-85 concert season with a performance at the Kansas State Fair in Hutchinson. The group, led by Doug Talbott, has four scheduled concerts at BCCC with a spring tour highlighting the band's year. Entrance into the jazz band is by audition only.

Percussionist Steve Knowles hams it up during the Jazz Band's first performance of the year at the State Fair in Hutchinson. Clowning around before the show are Kevin Lawrence, Kurt McCune, and Dean Fullinwider. Director Doug Talbott keeps things in order before the Pep Band's rainy performance for the Fort Scott football game.

Armed with a sparkling tuba, freshman Danny Thomas prepares to play with the Jazz Band in Hutchinson. Cranking out the sounds of jazz, Butler Jazz Arts performs for a large crowd at the State Fair.

BCCC helps to open lake

Thousands of people gathered to witness the El Dorado Lake Dedication over the Labor Day weekend. The lake is the largest, newest, and most modern recreational developments in Kansas. The lake cost approximately 11 million dollars to build.

Everything started Friday night with a parade through the city of El Dorado. Saturday morning the ceremonies started early with a bass tournament and a hot air balloon lift-off. During the day there were many other festivities such as a forty man parachute jump, a water skiing show, and a Ultralight aircraft show. The city even hosted a free barbecue lunch during which the Honey Bears and a band comprised of Butler and other area students provided the entertainment for the hungry crowd.

Political dignitaries including Senators Nancy Kassenbaum and Robert Dole and Governor John Carlin spoke at the dedication ceremonies.

High winds and rough water caused the cancellation of some of the scheduled events such as the water skiing demonstration and the sail boat races.

Estimations by officials claim that approximately 34 thousand people visited the lake during the three day celebration despite the adverse weather.

FALL SEMESTER

Fall semester 1984 found the largest enrollment at Butler County Community College in the history of the school. A total of 3,523 full time and part time students were enrolled.

Out of state students accounted for 36 enrollees and 32 students were from foreign countries. The rest of the enrollment was made up of Kansas residents.

Christie Bourne, El Dorado sophomore and Honeybear Jazz Dancer, performs a routine at Butler's Homecoming. A Grizzly mascot tries to prove to the fans how tough he thinks he can be. Greg Bales and Lesmes Boada try out one of the two new video display terminals (VDT) aquired by the journalism department.

Enrollment Reaches All Time High

Enrollment at the college reached an all time high at the beginning of fall semester when a total of 3523 student headcount was reached. Approximately 500 more students enrolled than in the fall of 1983, according to Ev Kohls, registrar.

McConnell Air Force Base enrollment accounted for 1203 of the students, and another 400 students were enrolled at the Augusta outreach campus. Total outreach enrollment accounted for more students than were enrolled on the campus, Kohls said.

On the Butler campus were 32 foreign enrollees and 36 students from out of state.

Kohls said that although the headcount was up, students actually enrolled in less credit hours per student than a year ago.

Approximately 60 per cent of the students were freshman and 40 per cent were sophomores.

Butler showed an increase in enrollment when state universities had a general decrease in numbers of students. The assistant state commissioner of education, Dale Dennis, said that junior college enrollment has increased on a statewide basis for the past several years.

BCCC has shown an increase in enrollment for three straight years. Kohls did not pinpoint any one factor as leading to the increase.

Students come from all over

Thirty-two foreign students attended Butler County during the fall semester on student visas. This does not include any foreign students who have U.S. citizenships. Only a small number of foreign students are allowed to attend Butler on student visas each year, so that each student can receive any individual help he might need. Foreign students often take English as a Second Language (ESL) to enhance their knowledge of the English language. Counselor Bill Trent is in charge of all foreign students.

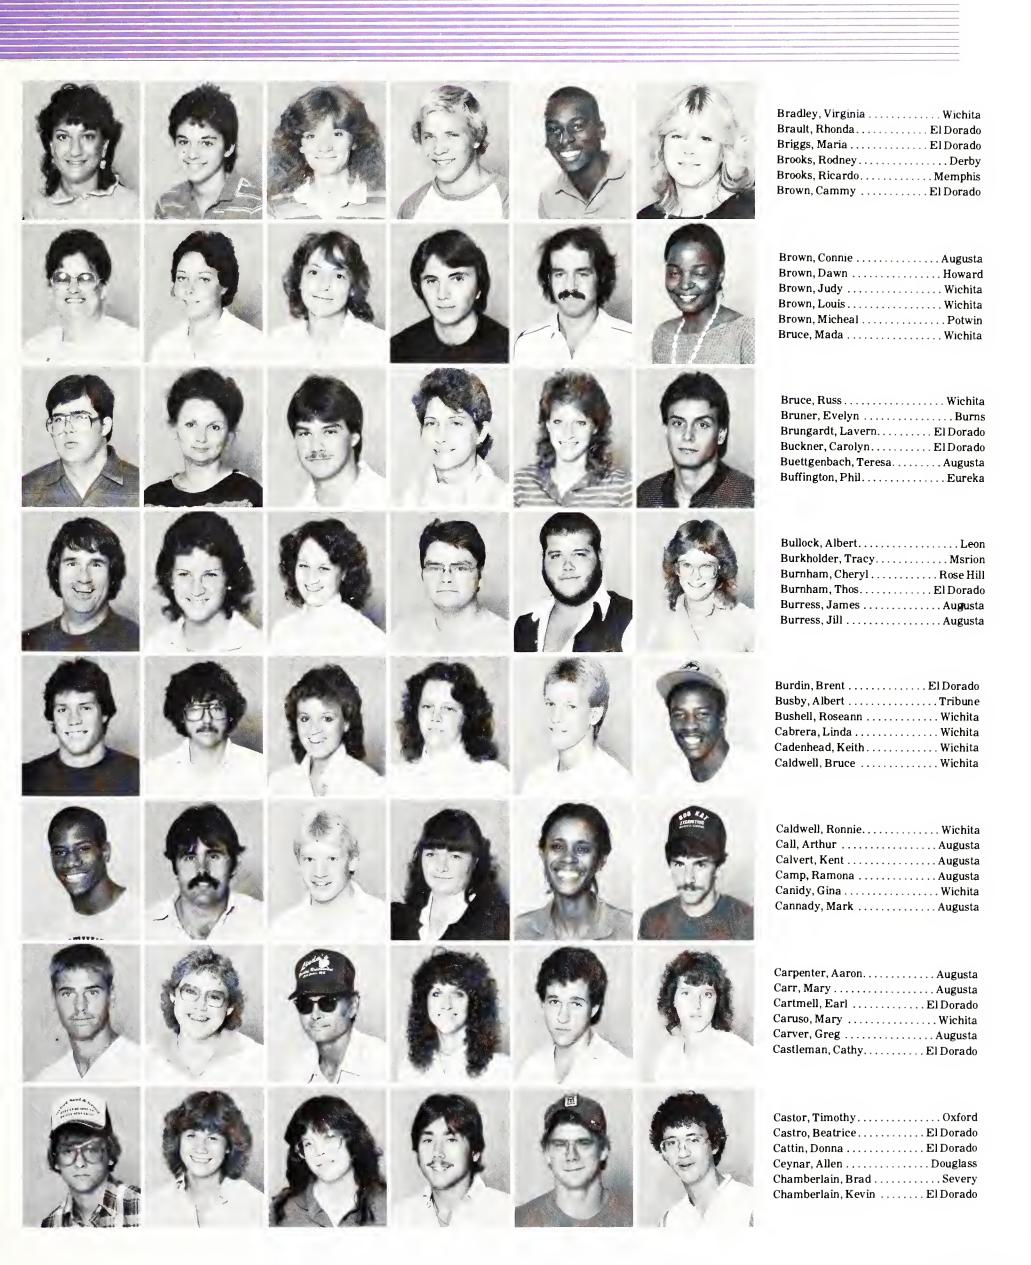

Canice Onyegbule and Emmanuel Amaechi are two Nigerian students attending their final year at Butler. Canice is majoring in Business Administration. He likes Butler, but he said, "Sometimes I have problems understanding the way things are done around here, which is sometimes bad." Emmanuel is majoring in Agricultural Economics.

Jesus Paolini is from Venezuela, attending his second year at Butler. He is majoring in Data Processing/Business Computer Programming, and praises the computer department here. His father went to BCCC, so Jesus decided to follow his father's footsteps. He is impressed with the college, but he has trouble making friends with his American classmates. "It seems to me that a lot of people are afraid to make friends with the foreign students." He doesn't understand this because in his homeland of Venezuela, the people are very friendly towards Americans. Jesus has a message to the people of the U.S.: "Americans take their country for granted, always wanting to leave, etc. I personally have travelled to countries such as Columbia, Venezuela, and Brazil, and this country (America) is definitely the best." Jesus also thinks that Americans should treat their visitors (foreign students) with a little more respect.

Christina (Nina) Johansson comes to Butler all the way from Trollhattan, Sweden. She is majoring in Communications, and is a writer for the student newspaper, The Lantern. Nina's younger brother, Per-Anders, was a foreign exchange student at Circle High School in Towanda two years ago. While attending school, Per-Anders lived at the home of Jo Rogers (BCCC instructor and yearbook advisor). When Nina decided to come to the U.S.A., she had inside connections.

Foreign students suggest that the next time you see a foreign student, take the time to get to know him. It is really something to see how well these people can adapt to such a different lifestyle.

New addition adds Bookstore storage

One of the two buildings on the campus with additions built onto it and finished this school term was the Bookstore.

Since the addition followed architectural lines and the space was not visible to those entering the Bookstore, few students were aware the addition took place. The additional space is utilized entirely for storage; there is no more space for foottraffic than before.

Glenda Fisher, Bookstore manager, said that the storage space was needed for packing and unpacking the thousands of books that come into the store each year. In addition to campus books, hundreds of boxes of books must be packed to ship to outreach campuses such as McConnell Air Force Base.

Sweaters, jackets, and other items sold in the store are also stored in the addition to the building.

Bears attack egos

Can you name the one occupation in Butler County that allows you to jeer at persons holding a high rank of esteem or gives you the freedom to act almost identically to those put away in padded rooms, or allows you to chase, badger and grab women in an ungentlemanly-like manner?

Appearance of this character: fuzzy feet, fuzzy tummy, fuzzy ears and fuzzy fuzz.

Characteristics: consist mainly of belly-rolls, swan dives, brawls, and fake heart attacks.

Hint: this occupation is one that most fans can identify with at football games when the action is getting a little boring on the field. Or, sometimes even when the action isn't so boring.

The job? That which only could be held by the Butler Bears of BCCC.

For Mike Baxter, John Mosier and Jeb Burress, living it up in a fuzz-covered suit isn't taken as lightly. Each must maintain a 2.0 grade point average, must be enrolled in 10 hours of classes, and is required to attend all Butler games possible — which becomes a time-consuming event during basketball season.

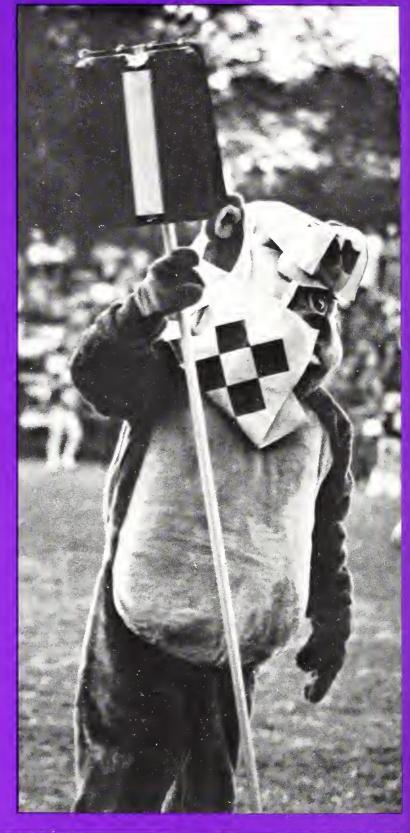

"Being one of the Butler Bears takes a lot of showmanship," said sponsor Rebecca Johnson-Kuntz. "Getting the community involved is very important."

Even so, being a Butler Bear does have its ups along with its downs but fun is the key word.

"What I like is being able to express myself and not anyone knowing who I am," said Mosier. "I like getting wild and crazy. It's something fun that seems to fit my personality."

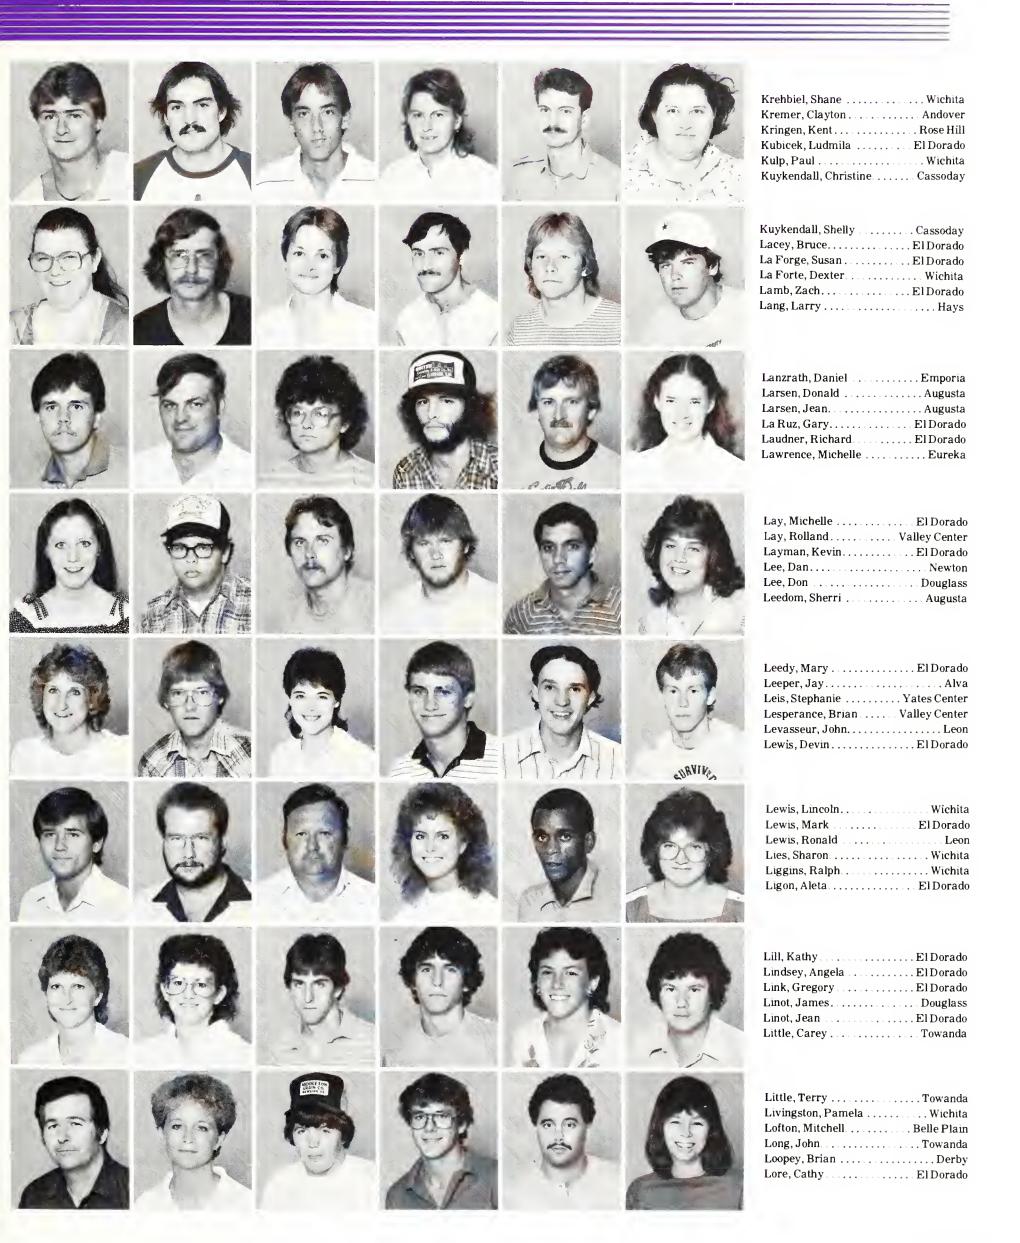

Burress put it this way: "The thing I like the most is getting away with all of the stuff we do. Giving the cheerleaders a hard time is always fun, too."

The big game among the Bears seems to be keeping a secret identity. Unless you really know them personally, trying to figure out who is who is a great crowd teaser.

Second semester tops first semester tally

Second semester students line up in front of Ev Kohls, registrar, as they wait their turns to become part of the record-breaking enrollment for the spring semester.

Faculty and students in the background work out schedules for the enrollees as popular classes begin closing.

Student enrollment at Butler continued its record breaking pace second semester with the final head count totaling 3530, according to Ev Kohls, registrar and director of student admissions. The records indicated that 180 more students were enrolled for the spring semester than were enrolled one year ago when a new record was set.

Total enrollment was higher than it was in the fall semester which traditionally has the higher enrollment.

Although the head count was up, full time equivalency (students carrying 12 hours or more) numbers were down approximately 20 students, Kohls said. He attributed this fact to the economy: "more people are working so they are carrying less hours."

International students accounted for 38 of the spring enrollees and 33 other students were from out of state. Less students came from out of state for the spring semester than for the fall semester even though spring enrollment was up over fall enrollment, Kohls said.

Enrollment stayed level in all the departments with no department taking either a "leap" or a "dive," Kohls continued.

Another optimistic note, the registrar pointed out, was the fact that there were less student withdrawals during the spring semester than there usually are.

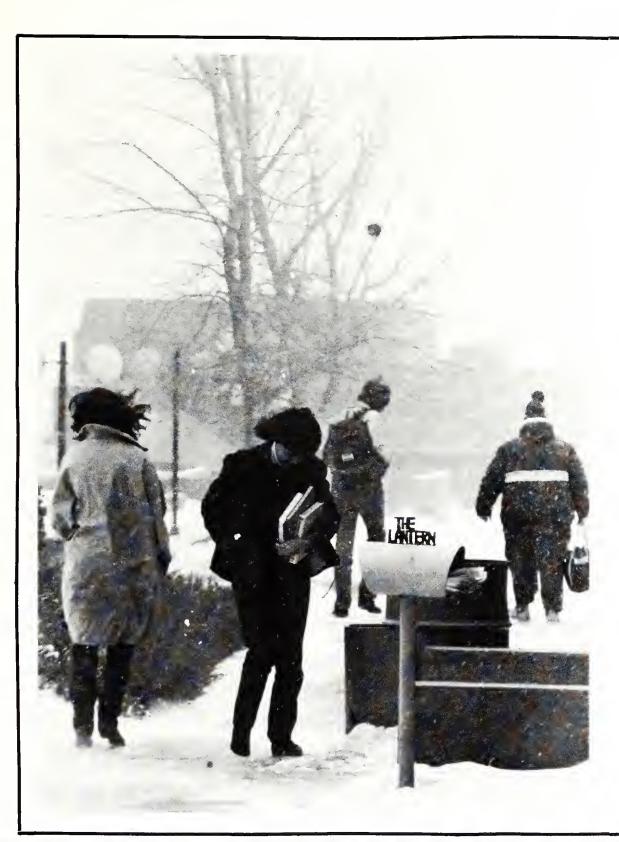

Butler continued to grow, bucking national trends. The Association Council for Policy Analysis and Research, a coalition of Washington-based higher education groups, reported a two percent enrollment decline for the fall of 1984 nation-wide.

Dr. Herb Kreller, psychology and philosophy instructor, teaches his class on the Butler campus. Kreller is one of several instructors who also teaches several classes on the McConnell AFB campus in Wichita. He completed the work for his doctorate last summer after a year's sabbatical to work for it at Kansas State University.

Fulltime faculty outnumbered by part-time teachers

Although enrollment set a new high this year, the total number of full-time faculty, staff, and administrative personnel did not increase. A total of 163 people were employed on the campus or in the outreach programs.

A number of part-time people including students also worked on the campus, but this number was constantly changing, according to Phil Arnold, dean of finance.

Seventy-nine full-time faculty members were on the payroll, as were 140 part-time faculty. These people were employed both on the campus and on the various outreach campuses such as McConnell AFB.

Thirty administrators were employed by Butler. Instructional support staff members totaled 12, with 25 more serving on the clerical staff. Buildings and grounds staff employed 17 people full-time with a number of part-time employees.

Charles Fuller, biological science instructor and the faculty member with the longest tenure, retired from the college at the close of the spring semester. Joy Choens, long-time employee with the outreach program, announced her resignation in January effective with the close of the spring term.

Butler employees pooled their efforts at Christmas time and contributed $850 to a scholarship fund which was distributed among 15 sophomores with the highest grade point averages.

All employees of the school were entertained in the fall with a get-acquainted picnic and at Christmas with a buffet. Some employees as a protest did not attend the social functions given by the Board of Trustees because they felt that the money could better be spent on scholarship or other programs.

Fuller ends long career

Charles Fuller is happy during his final semester with BCCC as he sits in his office and reflects about his 36 years with the school.

Long-time biological science instructor Charles Fuller's first year here was 1949; his last will be 1985. A man's work should be his pleasure; after 36 years it's a little obvious.

Fuller graduated from the University of Kansas with a bachelor of arts degree in 1949, and he came to El Dorado that same year to start his teaching career. At that time the college was located in the top floor of the old high school building at 500 W. Central. For a number of years after his arrival, Fuller taught on both the high school and college level.

In the fall of 1956, Fuller recalled, the College had moved most of its operations to the old Jefferson Elementary School building at 1000 W. First. Some laboratory and physical education classes remained in the high school building five blocks away.

"They'd only give the students ten minutes to walk to class from the old Jefferson building, so they would have to trot," Fuller said.

By 1966, the new junior college buildings were constructed and the campus in much its present form was in full use, "When we moved into the College, it was a highlight in my life because I started teaching full-time college," Fuller said.

He received a master of science degree with a major in biology from Pittsburg State College, now Pittsburg State University, in 1952 and a specialist in education degree with a major in biology from Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia, now Emporia State University, in 1961.

Since that time he has received three NDEA Fellowships, and was nominated by the BCCC

Education Association for state Master Teacher in 1973.

Upon retirement, you might imagine him to be the vision of ecstasy the day after graduation, longing for his lakeside resort in the Ozarks. Fuller commented, "Yeah, but I'll probably get tired of it and wish I was back here."

Asked if he noticed a change in student attitudes toward school through the years, he answered, "I don't see a big difference; either they try or put up a front to try. I can usually tell when I grade their papers."

What advice can you give to new teachers? "I think the most important thing is to be well grounded in their subjects and to be as helpful to their students as they can," he said.

If that's the case and former students are the barometer of success, he gets an A. Former students include nurses, teachers, doctors, engineers, even a U.S. senator.

What keeps a man in one place for so long? "That's easy; the association with young people keeps you going."

From Dinah Shore to Barbra Streisand, from the Fabulous Fifties to the "Me Generation," and from Truman to Reagan, Mr. Fuller has seen it all.

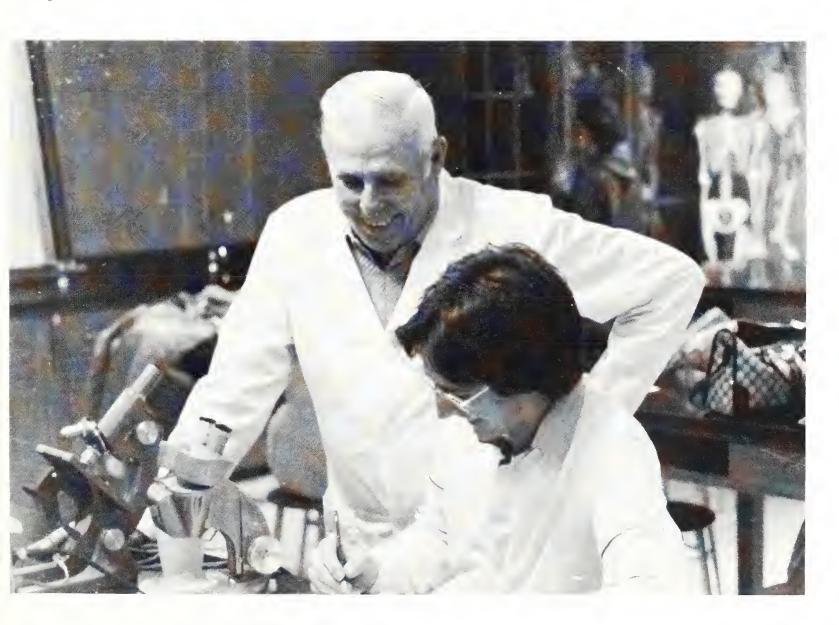

Three and a half decades is a long haul in anyone's book, especilly as public servant. His profession, like no other, must adjust to administrative red tape, cultural changes, and public opinion, often with little more than the inner satisfaction of a job well done. It takes a special person to give often, quietly, and for so long, for the benefit of others.

Charles Fuller is shown as he appeared in the 1951 yearbook, two years after he arrived In El Dorado to teach biological sciences. Several present faculty members at BCCC enjoyed Fuller as their biology teacher.

This country has a rich and proud tradition of progress, and if we are to sustain it, the need for knowledge will endure as will the need for special men like Charles Fuller to teach it.

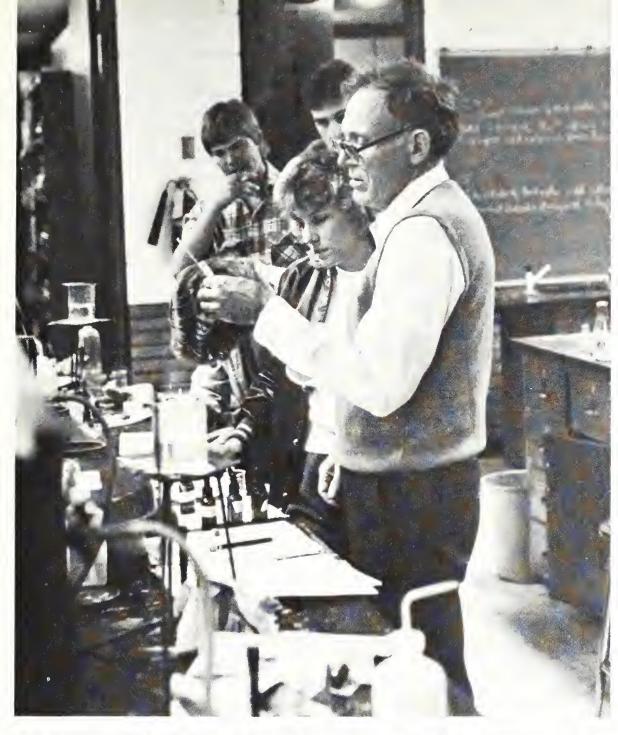

He will be missed by faculty and student body alike, but his image of discipline, patience, and dedication will forever remain. -By Scott O'Brien

buildings and grounds staff

The Buildings and Grounds Department finds itself under fire more than any other one department on the campus because among its many duties is that of keeping everyone happy with the building temperatures. According to Ted Albright, director of the department, this year was no exception; every day the calls came in with one person complaining the building was too hot while someone else in the same building was too cold.

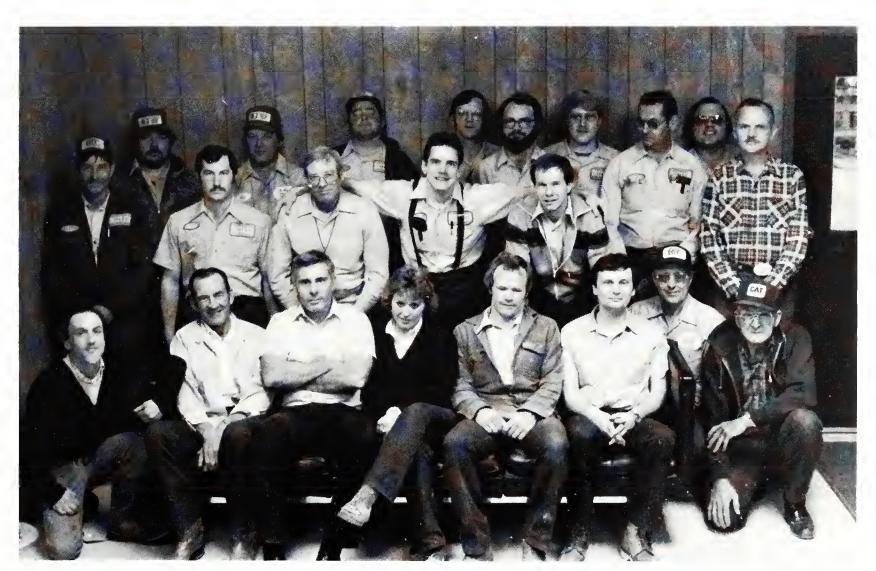

Approximately 25 fulltime employees worked at everything from cleaning restrooms to building new offices to ticketing wayward parking motorists on the campus. Buildings and grounds also employs electricians, mechanics, heating and air conditioning specialists, security guards, and broom pushers. (Many of the last category were part-time student employees.)

The department was also responsible for maintaining and checking in and out the large fleet of college automobiles. This meant that the office personnel had to field a number of phone calls from irate faculty and staff when the cars happen to break down on the road.

Albright, a retired military officer, kept his cool and seemed unflappable, according to most reports, no matter how many times he received angry calls about too much heat or not enough paper towels.

Buildings and Grounds received high marks from most people despite the individual complaints.

Board votes dorm addition

A recreational lounge addition to the student dormitories was voted in this year by the Board of Trustees for use by the residents. $60,000 was also appropriated for new furnishings for the old doritories.

The Trustees, meeting with the president, Carl Heinrich, and the vice president in charged of development, Larry Devane, approved plans for a new fine arts building this year but stalled on agreement for financing of the structure.

In decisions directly affecting the students, the Board approved a $2 hike per hour in tuition for the next semester "to help offset increased costs of living and inflation and to keep courses current and the levels of education high."

The makeup of the Board will change in July since one member, Eugene Fisher, did not choose to run in the April election, and two other members faced strong challengers who were backed by a number of faculty and administrators.

New facility

Since its conception more than two years ago, the addition to the Gym has come a long way. To be more specific, it has come over $870,000 and 23,000 square feet of the way.

Many students had thought the new Gym addition, opened last spring, would be dominated by major athletics (those on scholarship). But the facility has proved to be equally beneficial for people willing to test their strengths in almost any given area be it weight lifting, high jumping, aerobic dance or anything else that might catch their fancy.

The addition serves multiple purposes. Along with the new weight room, training room, dressing room, activity center and laundry area, the facility also provides a new concession stand and more office space for coaches and faculty.

"It (the addition) gives us a kind of third dimension it moves us up the ladder then comparing (the facilities) with other schools," Gene Arnold, a physical education instructor, said.

Jeanette Malone, as are most of the PE instructors, is satisfied with the results of the addition. But she believes that with more planning the new facility could have even been more successful.

"It's helped a great deal as far as taking pressure off the overcrouding," Malone said.

Considering the two badminton courts available, Malone said she belives there is room for at least one more. "They (the planners) should have checked with us about the markings," she said.

There is room for only two courts now, but if the markings were different there could be room for three.

One other mistake, according to Ms. Malone, is the omission of racketball courts. Even through partitions are avaliable to encase separate racketball courts, Malone contends that they should have been "built into" the building.

Because her office is located on the lower level of the old part of the building, one thing Malone said makes her happy is "I do not have the noise of the weights dropping overhead like I used to."

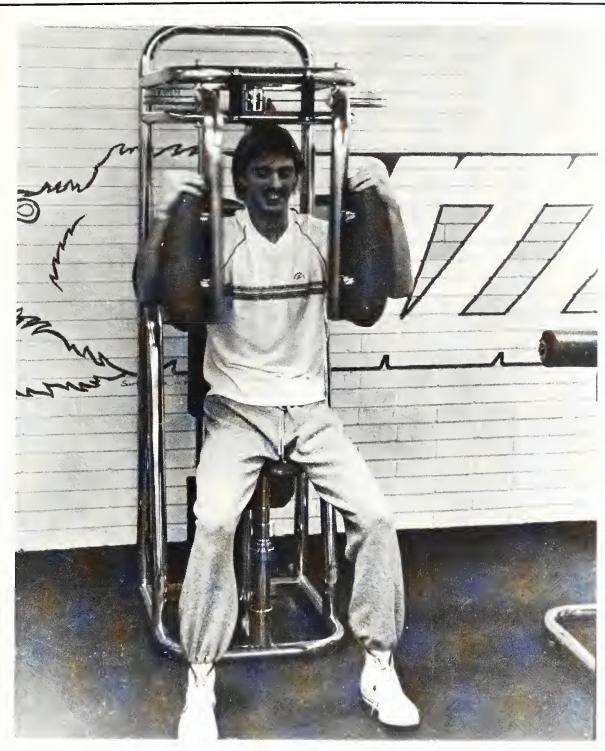

John Francis, track coach, said that he is particularly pleased with the additional room. The floor of the new activity center "gives us a chance to practice on the same kind of surface we compete on," Francis said.

An added advantage is the year round training area for high jumpers. With the portable jump pit, they can practice almost any time they care to without disturbing classes, which used to be a problem.

The extra laundry room is appreciated because it provides clean uniforms and employment for the students who run it on Work-Study programs.

The opinion of the students and college staff seems to be that the addition is an added plus for everyone attending Butler County.

Butler squeaks 10-9 KJJC Crown

It looked as if it were a sure defeat to everyone except the Butler County Grizzlies Sunday, November 11th. Coffeyville had the ball inside the Grizzly 10-yard line and set up for the game-winning field goal, which never came.

The Grizzlies' defensive end, Ken Mc-Clendon, blew in and blocked the Red Raven's 20-yard field goal attempt by Mark Mc Cray.

The triumph makes the Grizzies champions of the Kansas Jayhawk Juco Conference.

It was the second time this season that a Butler County football game with Coffeyville had been decided on a last-second play. In their regular-season meeting, Coffeyville scored with 17 seconds left to defeat the Grizzlies 17-13.

Sunday's game was very similar, except for the fact the Red Ravens couldn't cash in on their last-second effort.

At half-time, things looked bleak for the Grizzlies, who were down 9-0.

"We showed a lot of character coming back against a good team like Coffeyville. We showed a lot of character all season, winning six games in a row, and we have come through a lot of adversity. It is a tribute to our kids who always play tough," said head coach Brian McNeely.

As has been the story all year, the Grizzly defense came through when it was needed holding Coffeyville's vaunted wishbone attack for 43 yards.

The Grizzlies allowed the Red Ravens only one touchdown. It was the first touchdown the Grizzies had given up in playoff competition and the only touchdown relinquished in the past four games.

Coffeyville, which much prefers the run over the pass, was forced to throw. Red Ravens' quarterback Mark McCray was 9 completions for 26 yards. It may have been the first time in several years that Coffeyville gained more yards through the air than on the ground.

The Grizzlies came out the second half and dominated the contest. They held the Red Ravens to only nine points, 20 below their average.

"I asked my players 'How many of you have been down by nine points at half-time?' and they all had at one time or another," said McNeely. "We showed a lot of pride coming back and beating a good football team on their home field."

Neither team's offense moved the ball very well. The Grizzlies had 246 total yards, but could have amassed more.

"Our offense played just well enough to win. Our line blocked well at times, and Scott Shriner rushed exceptionally well. We just had several turnovers at crucial times," McNeely said.

Quarterback Darrin Rohr passed for 139 yards, which accounted for the Grizzlies' air attack.

Butler County's star tailback, Keith Majors, played sparingly with an injured ankle. Shriner, who was Majors' replacement, sparkled, rushing for 120 yards on 24 carries.

Sunday's game marked the first time Butler County had won the conference title since 1981 when the Grizzlies defeated the Red Ravens. Butler has been in the championship game three out of the last four years.

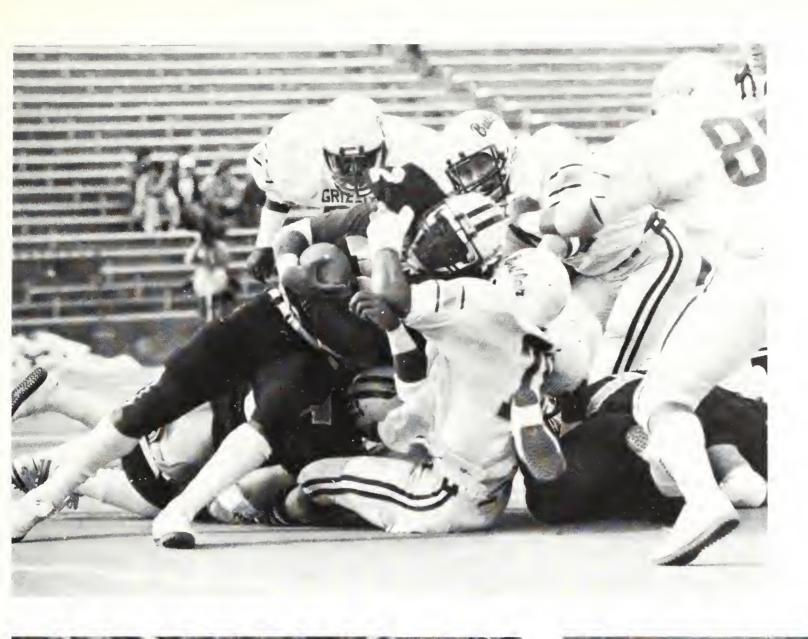

The Grizzlies have won six games in a row, and that is their longest winning streak since '81. They have proved they are the team to beat in the KJCC.

Asked if he believed his team was lucky to win the Coffeyville game, McNeely said "Good teams have to make big plays — and we are a good team."

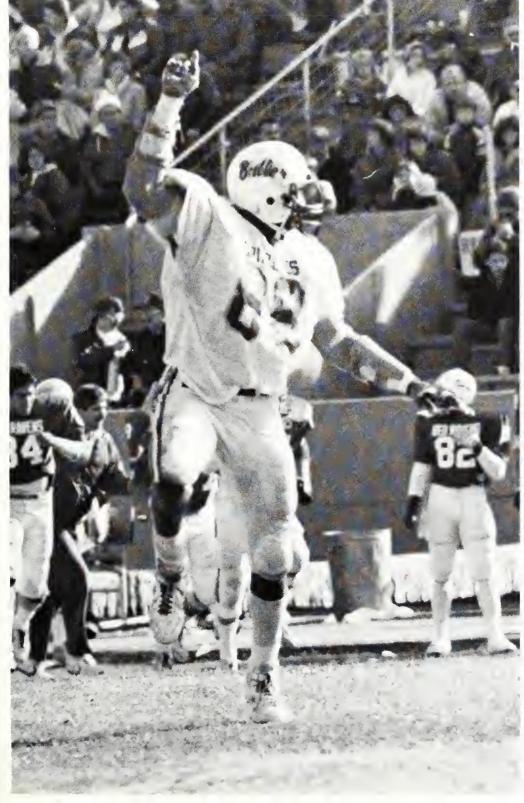

"We are by far the best team in the conference," McNeely said. "We should have beaten Coffeyville by three touchdowns."

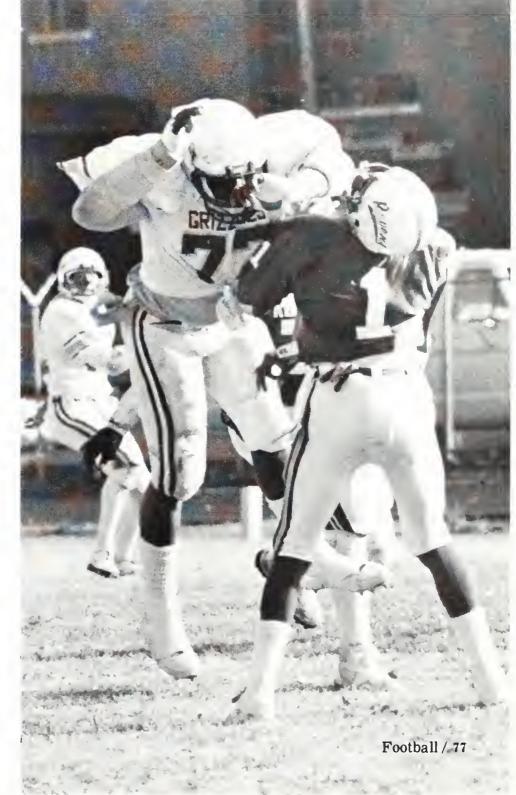

Coach Brian McNeelyis carried off the field by his team members.

Grizzlies rally for bowl win

In three tries Butler County has never lost a bowl game. And the Grizzies kept this string of victories intact by pounding Tyler Texas Junior College, 27-14, in the Eigth Annual Garland Shrine Bowl played Dec. 1 at Garland Texas.

The College team fell behind early, but rallied in the second half to take the victory. Butler trailed 14-0 at half time, but held the powerful Tyler offense scoreless in the second half.

"In the middle of the third quarter the momentum really swung to our side," defensive coordinator Rob Bolks said. "The two turning points of the game were Bruce Caldwell's interception and Craig Dalquist's 15-yard run on a fake punt."

The game didn't start out well for Butler as Tyler scored on a long pass with barely a minute ticked off the game clock.

"We never get down. We realized that two big plays led to their scores. We stopped their best back, Ronnie Ducksworth, holding him to 58 yards. It's easy to take away big plays rather than a constant offensive pounding," Bolks said. "The defense played very well the second half. We went in at halftime down 14-0, but came back and shut them out. We were a little disappointed on Tyler's first touchdown, it was a trick play, and their second score was set by a long pass," Bolks added.

The most valuable player of the game was quarterback Darrin Rohr.

Rohr had a slow start in the first half, but got the offense going. Rohr showed good leadership and cranked up the Butler offense, coordinated by Bob Larson. Rohr completed eight passes out of 21 attempts in the game. The sophomore field general from Neodesha threw three touchdown passes and only one interception. The scoring tosses to Marcus Folks (four yards), Mike Owens (two yards) and Ronnie Caldwell (10 yards).

The Garland Bowl is considered the most prestigious of all junior college bowls. The Grizzlies ended their season with a record of 9-3, winning their last seven games.

Butler County's Grizzlies celebrate their 27-14 victory over Tyler, Texas, in the Garland Bowl.

McNeely resigns for KU post

Text by Tom Morris

Brian McNeely, Butler's head football coach, announced his resignation December 13. The announcement came at a 12:30 press conference in the Purple and Gold Room.

"I feel at this time, it is the best time to make the decision to leave," McNeely said.

"It is a good time to announce my leaving because the other coaches can continue to recruit without the question of me leaving, and hopefully it won't affect any of the team's decisions as to where they are going," he added.

McNeely is departing the "Land of the Grizzlies" to accept an assistant coach position with the University of Kansas football team.

Rob Bolks, as announced December 18 in a second press conference, will take over the position of head coach for the 1985 season. Bolks was previously defensive coordinator for the Grizzlies' No. 2 nationally ranked defense.

McNeely, a Kansas native, will be instrumental in the recruiting of Kansas high school athletes for the Lawrence school. The Butler coach, who compiled a 22-11-1 record in three seasons — 4-4-1 in 1982, 8-4 in 1983 and 9-3 this season — will begin his duties at KU after the first of the year.

McNeely said the decision to leave Butler was of recent origin.

He also denied having contract disputes with Butler officials.

"This wasn't a matter of money, and there wasn't a contract dispute with the College. KU has an up-and-coming program and this was just an opportunity I couldn't pass up," McNeely said.

During the press conference, the Butler coach said he was "attempting to build a good, solid program." This season the Grizzlies won the Kansas Jayhawk Juco Conference title and won their third consecutive bowl game. They were also ranked as the No. 3 team in the nation.

The official press release distributed by the Office of Public Information indicated that "No junior college in Kansas is as highly recruited by Division I schools as Butler County Community College."

Twenty-five players have been signed by Division I schools since 1981, and 14 players are currently being recruited by four-year colleges, the report also indicated, backing up McNeely's statement.

McNeely is leaving the Grizzly coach staff with "good standing" with the administration. College President Carl Heinrich and Athletic Director Tom Spicer congratulated the coach on his acceptance at KU.

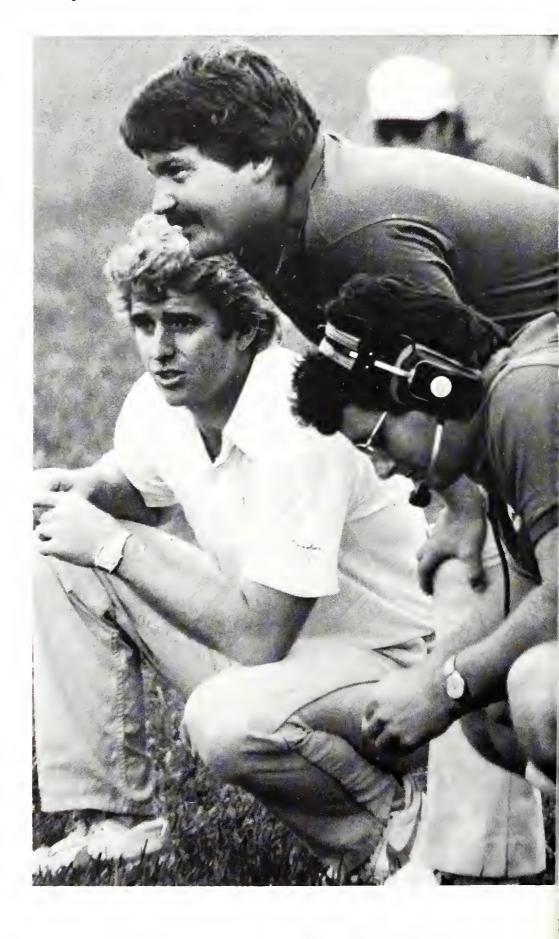

"I remember when I was screening applicants I told Brian I thought he was too young. Obviously, maturity is not the only thing to do with coaching," Bill Cummins, dean of student services, said.

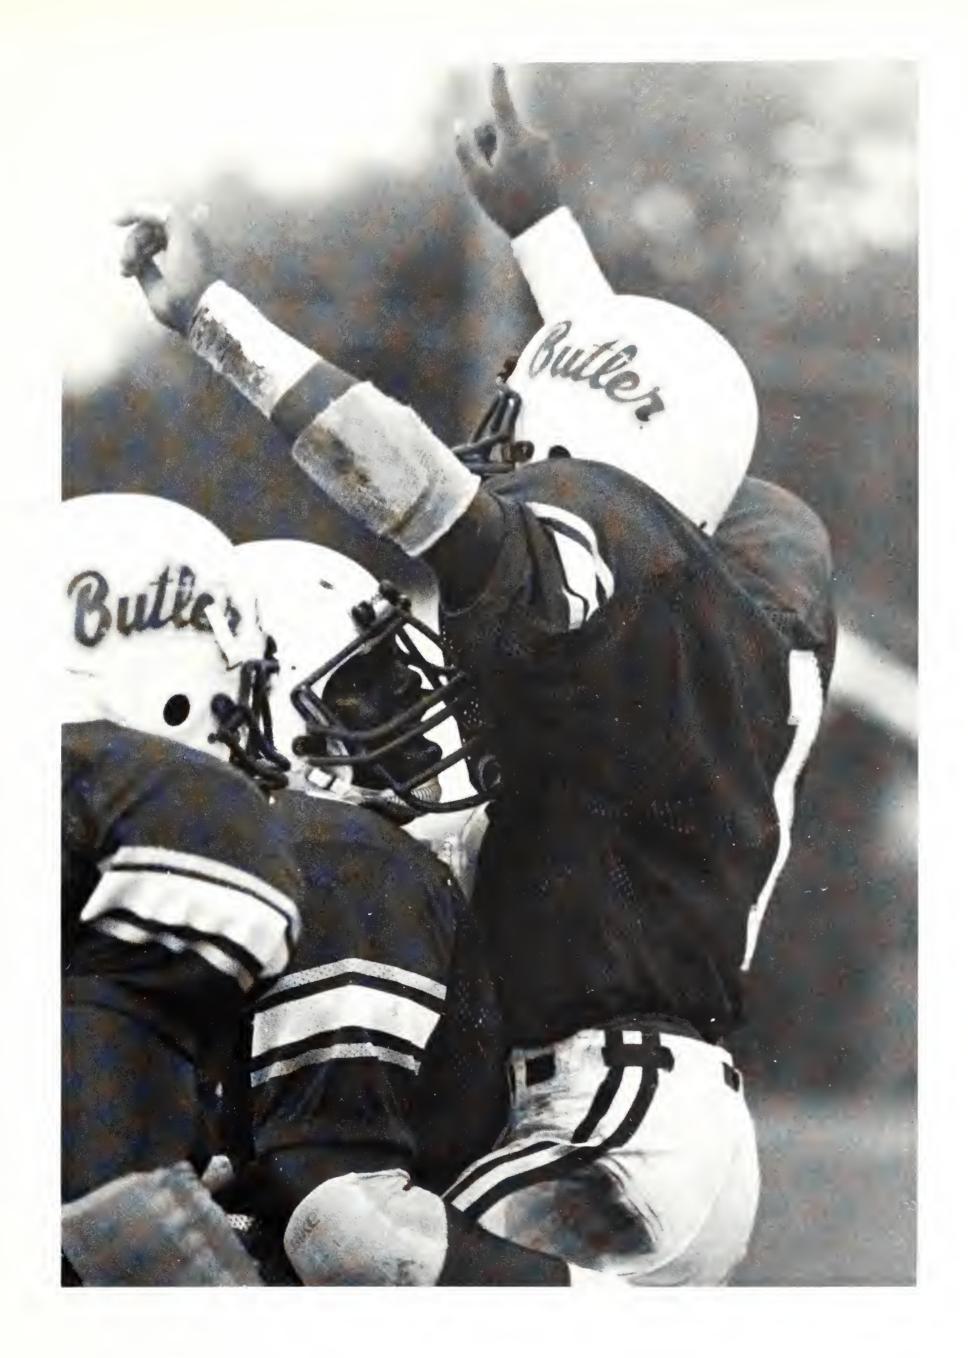

McNeely said he planned to stay at Butler long enough to make sure his sophomore players have their arrangements made with four-year colleges. He said he has no immediate plans to take players or assistant coaches to KU with him.

McNeely said he enjoyed his coaching tenure at Butler, and wished the new head coach good luck in the future.

"I appreciate what Butler County has done for me. It has been a good experience here for both me and my family. We've had good support and I hope the public continues to support the new coach as well," McNeely said.

Volleyball team ranks 3rd

The Lady Grizzlies' volleyball team, aided by head coach Debbie Sawtelle and assistant coach Sarah Balzer, finished third in the Jayhawk Juco Western Division Conference with a 6-4 conference record and a 15-10 junior college record. Barton County was named as the conference champion while Dodge City followed in second.

The year was a rebuilding season for the Lady Grizzlies, with nine freshmen on the 12-member team, according to Sawtelle. Diana Kohls, who was out for a portion of the closing season with an ankle injury, was the only returning starter for the Grizzly team.

"Diana is one of the best all-around volleyball players I have had the privilege of coaching at Butler County," said Sawtelle. "She is a very talented ball player. She was our team leader and definitely an inspiration to the younger players."

Other Lady Grizzly sophomores scheduled to graduate are Michele Hunt and Lousia Boucher.

Last year's team finished the 1983 season standing fifth in the conference with a 17-10 record. This year's third place finish was a major improvement for the Grizzly team.

"I am really pleased with the way my girls came around this year," Sawtelle said. "They all took on the challenge and assumed our goal, which was to finish in the top three of the conference."

"This win calls for a round of enthusiasm" seems to be what volleyball team members are thinking. The Lady Grizzlies had much to cheer about after finishing 3rd in the Western Division Jayhawk Juco Conference ranks.

Promise delivered by Kirkham

New coach Steve Kirkham entered the 1984-85 basketball campaign at the helm of the Lady Grizzlies program. Kirkham, like Moses, promised to "deliver" the Butler women from the cellar of the Kansas Jayhawk Juco Conference's western division.

He kept his promise.

The College women concluded the season with the second-best record in Butler's history (12-19), went 3-9 in the KJJC west, and was 12-13 against Kansas junior college teams.

Despite losing two players because of academic ineligibility (Thallis Snipes and Marcia Worley) and one team memeber due to a knee injury (Lisa Metcalf), the Grizzliettes were in serious contention for a playoff spot until the next-to-last week of the season.

Butler's women accomplished all this with nine freshman on the roster, and only one returning team member from the 1983-84 season (Daneen Brison).

"I call it just having fun," Kirkham said.

Kirkham and assistant coach David Kohls installed a different offensive philosophy into the women's roundball program. The Lady Grizzlies responded by rewriting the College women's roundball record book.

Overall 11 individual marks were established, two career records were set, and the team was credited with breaking seven previous team-best performances.

"It was a total team effort," Kirkham said. "Records can only be broken if someone else is there to help you out."

Butler County finished fifth in the conference behind Hutchinson, Dodge City, Barton County and Seward County — four of the best teams in the state, Kirkham said.

Even though the College women did not qualify for the playoffs, they earned the respect of the rest of the teams in the conference.

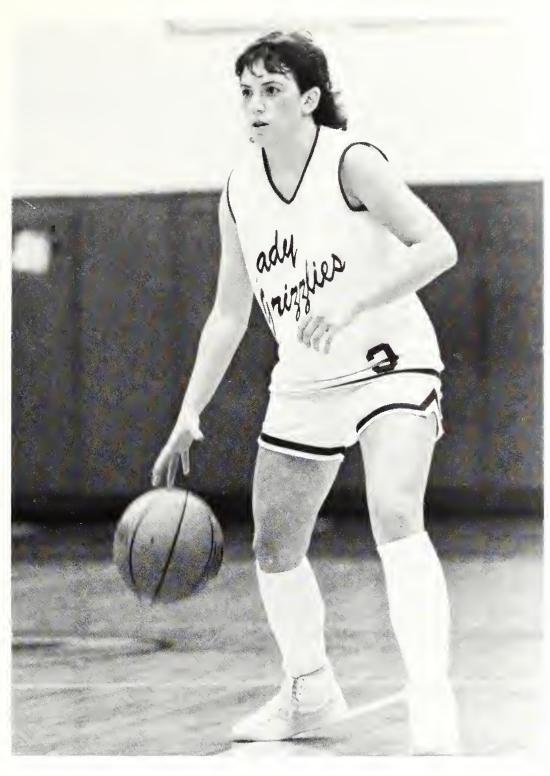

"We played everybody tough. It used to be Butler County was a breather on everybody's schedule, but it's not like that anymore," Kirkham said.

"We improved every week and had a good successful season. We can only hope 1985-86 will be even more successful," he added.

Track teams finish 6th, 10th at nationals

Butler's track teams placed sixth and tenth overall at the National Junior College Athletic Association indoor championships at the University of Arkansas in March.

Paced by the one-two performance of Ken Nash and Stacey Henson in the shot put and coached by John Francis and Julius Mercer (assistant), the men tallied 23.5 points and finished sixth overall. Nash won the national championship with a toss of 52.5'; Henson took second with a 49'7' effort.

Only six men represented Butler at the NJCAA finals, compared to 12 national qualifiers last year who placed fourth overall.

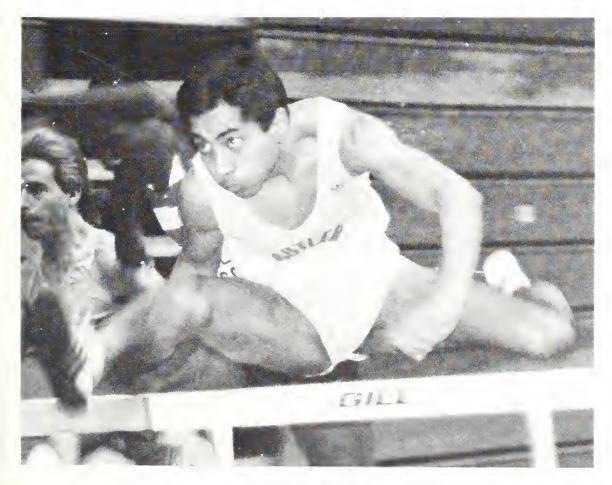

Other Butler men placing at nationals were Phil Buffington, who tied for fifth in the high jump and Duke Reed placed fourth in the 1000-yard run.

Jimmie Walker also traveled to the national meet, but did not place.

In the women's division (coached by Tonya Kerschner), Rhonda Jones took second in the 55-meter hurdles to lead the Lady Grizzlies to a three-way tie for tenth place. Two people represented the College women at the indoor finals. Trish Bahr also competed and placed ninth in the high jump.

Odessa, Texas won the men's division; Eastern Oklahoma, the women's.

Sutter frustrated by 11-18 tally

"Frustrating," said head men's basketball coach Jack Sutter. "The season was very frustrating because we lost so many close games."

No lie.

Of the Grizzlies 11-18 over-all record and 3-9 lastplace conference finish, five of the losses were in over-time; four by three points or less. There, lies the frustration.

"It was not the typical year, anyway," said Sutter. "Actually, we played two seasons. Two of our first semester starters didn't play second semester, then three players came in at second semester. I wouldn't call it one continuous season."

On a positive note, the Grizzlies lit fire at the end of the season, beating the co-champions of the Jayhawk Juco Western Division conference — Hutchinson and Seward County. A last-second left-handed hook shot from the top of the key by Vincent Wimbley stole the victory from Hutchinson. It was one of the Grizzlies' most outstanding finishes. Both Seward and Hutch ended the season with an 8-4 conference record.

"There were only three conference games that we really got blown away in," said Sutter. "Those were against Pratt, Garden City and Barton County."

But, unfortunately, the close ones paid their dues. Butler County finished the season in the rear seat — last place.

"It wasn't so much of a disappointment to not make the playoffs," Sutter said, "it was in not finishing in first or second place in the conference."

That hurts.

And it will also hurt Eric "E-Man" Smith, who undoubtedly lead the Grizzly march. Though Smith is an outstanding sophomore ball player, he will not gain much national attention because of the team's over-all record. Sutter nominated Smith for all-american honors, but does not feel that he will make it through the picking and sorting of the appointed committee.

Smith will, although, be named as an all-conference player, Sutter feels. "E-Man" broke Bill Brooks 1976-'78 all-time scoring record of 906 total points in a career, firing through a red-hot 1,031 points. "Consistancy was the key," Sutter added, "I looked for Eric to score at least eighteen points a game. It was a rare occasion that he didn't do just that."

Five Grizzly players will be returning to the program, along with new assistant coach Dick Clark — who joined the ranks at the beginning of the year.

Sutter, who has served six years as a coach at BC-CC, will not be one of the returnees, though. His contract was not renewed for the 1985-'86 season. Sutter commented that he enjoyed his term at Butler and is looking into four-year programs for a future coaching role.

actifities

"Activities" at Butler seem to include everything students do outside of class with the exception of sports. Activities included band and vocal music, agriculture, nursing, business, journalism, intramurals, dramatics, and their groups or clubs associated with them. Social activities, which many students claim are limited, are also included in the grouping.

Social sororities and fraternities are nonexistent on the campus but there are several national academic fraternities affiliated with the college such as drama and business associated.

A national journalism society was chartered on the campus this year when student journalists were approved for a chapter of the Society for Collegiate Journalists.

All organized social activities were directed by the Student Activities Council whose funding came from the student activity fees paid by all students. SAC sponsored dances and various parties throughout the year.

The fact that BCCC is primarily a commuter college cuts down on the attendance at many of the social gatherings. Many students attend class and then leave to go to their jobs or to their homes in the surrounding owns, not to return until the next class meets.

The groups having the largest membership are the ones that are curriculum related or that are scholarship related. Band and vocal music groups fall into these categories since many of the participants are on music scholarships. Other activities that attract student participation with scholarships include drama, cheer leading, drill team, judging team, newspaper, and yearbook.

The activities, organizations, and groups that are not featured in this section the staff hopes to represent in the spring supplement to the book which will be distributed in the fall.

A little of Broadway still alive in BCCC's production of 'Sugar'

The college version of the Broadway musical "Sugar" opened October 18th, the first of three consecutive shows, under the direction of Bob Peterson and presented by the Butler County drama department.

"I've wanted to do this play for years now," said Peterson, speech and theater instructor at the college.

"Sugar" is based on the original screenplay of "Some Like it Hot," written by Billy Wilder and I.A.L. Diamond. The film version debuted in 1959 and starred Marilyn Monroe, Jack Lemmon and Tony Curtis.

The story follows the misfortunes of Jerry (Dan Williams, Wichita freshman) and Joe (Jon Heinrich, Augusta freshman), two unlucky and unemployed musicians desperately trying to find a job in 1931.

In the musical the two men accidentally witness the St. Valentine's Day massacre. To avoid recognition by the mob, the pair resort to dressing in drag and join an allgirl band under the supervision of Sweet Sue (Lisa Johnson, Sedgwick freshman), and the band's manager, Bienstock (James Valdez, Wichita freshman).

The band's "added attraction" is Miss Sugar Kane (Alisa Bridge, Butler student), who is in search of the perfect millionare.

Spats Palazzo (Kent Calvert, Augusta freshman) is the leader of the tap-dancing gangsters which chases the witnesses from Chicago to Florida.

The only problems that uncover with Jerry and Joe's cover-up occur when 'Josephine' (Joe) falls in love with Sugar Kane and Sir Osgood Fielding (Walter Stewart), a Florida millinonare, falls for 'Daphne' (Jerry). The confusion runs wild with hilarious misfortunes of love between the boys trying to keep their newly found feminine attitude and their true loves. But, all ends well when the truth is let out of the bag and the four of them sail away on Osgood's yacht, leaving Spats Palazzo dead and trouble behind.

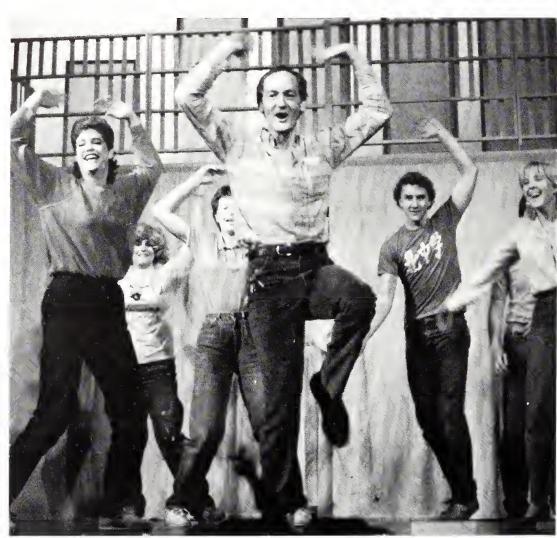

"Of course I had some cutting to do to bring the show to the community college level," Peterson said. "Our version has six leads, with two choruses."

But, a lot of Broadway was still in the show.

Other cast members included: Greg Bales as the Dude and train announcer; Patricia Hallmark as Dude's Moll and Olga; Amy Becker as another gangster's Moll; Amy Chisman as Delores; Pam Freeman as Mary Lou; Rhonda Coffman as Rosella and Tom Mittlestadt as Knuckles Nortan and the cab driver.

Josephine (Joe) and Daphne (Jerry) live it up as chorus girls (lower left) for Sweet Sue's band. With lots of practice the girls (?) were said to have great style and personality — maybe even a small amount of sex-appeal. (Lower right) Speech and Drama instructor Bob Peterson limbers up the cast before each rehearsal. Sugar Kane (left) informs Bienstock, the nervous manager of Sweet Sue's band, that she may not be with the show much longer if things work out with her and her new found love. From the expression Dan Williams is giving, "Jerry" doesn't seem too crazy about having a millionare courting him during his stay in sunny Florida.

Theatre plays to thousands

Late February brought more than 3,000 area grade school students to the Fine Arts Auditorium to preview the college's version of the Brothers Grimm fairy tale, "The Brementon Musicians." This 1985 children's theater production was later shown to the general public.

Don Koke, instructor of speech and theatre said, "The audience should be prepared to enter a world of fun and hilarity, with a couple of cheap bits."

The show is about four animals (a cat, dog, rooster, and a donkey) that are turned away from their owner/farmer. They decide to go to Brementown to become musicians. On their way to town, they run upon some robbers and "inadvertently terrorize" them.

"It's a farce with a lot of physical action," Koke said. "(It's) a real child's world — with good guys, bad guys, animals and make believe."

Characters and their portrayers included the Rooster, Kent Calvert; Donkey, Dan Williams; Cat, Amy Chisman; Hound, Jon Heinrich; Miller and Boss, James Valdez; Mistress, Alisa Bridge; Hook, Mark Jones; and Wilbur, Tom Mittlestadt.

The production staff included: director and light design, Koke; set design, Bob Peterson; stage manager, Eleonora Bracho; pianist, Candi Vogt.

Box Office and house managers were Nancy Watson and Leslie Marr. Light board operator was Doug May. Production photographer was Don Gilliland. In charge of spattering and frame brackets was Clay Bridge.

Delta Psi reorganizes

Delta Psi Omega, collegiate dramatic fraternity and the oldest fraternity on the campus, underwent a complete "reorganization" this year according to Robert Peterson, newly named adviser to the group. There were no holdover members from last year, Peterson said.

Fraternity projects included selling kisses from "your favorite star" on Valentine's day, sponsoring a winter "beach party" for charity, and producing the Delta Psi Omega awards banquet.

Students must qualify for membership in the organization by "making a significant contribution in two major productions at the college," Peterson said. The fraternity is dedicated to stimulating interest in dramatic activities, he added.

Members include: Amy Chisman, Tom Mittlestadt, Lisa Johnson, Greg Bales, Dan Williams, Kent Calvert, Mark Jones, Jon Heinrich, Don Koke, Pam Freeman, James Valdez, and Pat Hallmark.

Bales is president, Valdez is vice president, Chisman is secretary, and Heinrich is treasurer.

Chess Club organizes

A few chess players have turned out for intramural competition in the past, but there is no record that the school has had intercollegiate competion before. Bill Cummins, dean of student activities, said that his office had no record of an official chess club, but that the office did not prohibit students organizing their own groups.

Club members, according to Walker, are Philip Moss, Mark A. Jones, Ron Pitts, Ron Hayes, Dexter LeForte, Aaron Carpenter, Mark Miskell, Chris Espey, Lana Bockleman, Harry Reynolds, Mike Brinkmeyer, Marc Crooks, and Walker.

The newest club on the campus came into existence this year and has approximately 14 members. Chess is their game and as yet they do not have a name according to some of the members of the newly formed collegiate chess club. Neither has the group a faculty adviser, but this does not deter the players. The group considers itself a collegiate team.

Members spent first semester getting oraganized and practicing for intercollegiate competition, according to Gary D. Walker, team captain.

Judging team scores high nationally

Butler County's livestock judging team scored among the leaders in national competition this year and with only two contests remaining, they are ranked fourth overall in the nation

Judging team coach Mike Simon said, "This year's team has been one of the most consistent teams in the nation."

The best finish included a second place overall finish out of 17 colleges competing in the Grand National Contest in San Francisco. Outstanding individual performances were achieved by Buck Watts, first in sheep; Craig Reed, sixth in oral reasons, and Tim McCune, tenth in swine. At the Mid America Classic in Wichita, the team finished third overall out of 12 colleges competing. Outstanding individual performances included Dale Beecher, second high overall, and Craig Reed fourth high overall.

At the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Kentucky, Butler finished fifth overall out of 29 colleges competing. Outstanding individual performances were Craig Reed second in sheep, Tim McCune fourth in cattle.

Simon credits the team's success to professionalism and many hours of practice. Workouts at the many breeders' farms averaged two or three times a week with a total of about 24 hours a week.

Simon commented, "The team is the biggest ambassador or representitive of the College as far as miles traveled and cities visited."

Agriculture Club goes for the fundraising

Agriculture club members have busy all year in various fund raising activities to raise money for the Agriculture Department. Activities included running concession stands at the state fair for a day. Funds raised at the fair will pay for an upcoming awards banquet, and for recognizing students and community members for outstanding contributions to the Department.

Other activities were an initiation for new members, and the sale of Butler County caps to raise funds for sponsoring an upcoming livestock judging competition.

Some members attended the National Post Section Agriculture Student Organization, (NPASO) national competition in Jacksonville, Mississippi in March.

Officers of the club are: Tim McCune, president; Alan Johnson, vice president; Julie Sander, treasurer; Derral Sommerfield, sergeant at arms; Beth Akin, reporter.

Others attending from the Butler chapter included Jill Lassiter, president; Teri Walker, vice president; Carol Pulliam, LeAnn Beasly, Debbie Ogletree, Susan Olson, LaVaughn White, and faculty adviser Janice Jones.

Business meetings were held daily with the convention ending with a formal banquet attended by all delegates, representatives and guests.

A feature of the banquet was the presentation of the traveling trophy. Each year the traveling trophy is awarded to the school with the highest criteria in national, state, local projects, and fund raisers. Butler County was awarded the trophy.

Throughout the year the club sponsored several workshops and engaged in fund raising and other act-vities including a bake sale, button sale, and pulmonary function screening for the American Cancer Society.

Publishing a booklet with the theme "Everything you wanted to know about nursing school that no one told you" was another project.

Purpose of the K.S.N.A. is to provide an avenue for contributing to nursing education in order to provide for the highest quality health care.

Officers of the club were Jill Lassiter, president; Teri Walker, vice president; and Richard Egbert, secretary-treasurer.

SAC directs campus life

Most of the social activities held on the campus were planned and carried out by the members of the Student Activities Council (SAC). The group was responsible for staging both homecomings (football and basketball) complete with parades, dances, elections, and coronations of kings and queens.

Other happenings sponsored by SAC included skating parties, monthly movies, a dance in the fall to welcome students, Christmas dance, Valentine dance, and other dances in the Student Union. They also took charge of all campus elections.

SAC also sponsored a pep trip to Coffeyville and provided for the bus transportation.

Members of the council promoted events throughout the year to encourage more school spirit on the campus, according to Sherene Durst, co-chairperson of publicity. This task included making posters and signs and decorations for the various events.

Funding for the Council was provided by the student activity fees charged all students who are enrolled on the Butler campus of BCCC. If students do not get their money's worth for the fees paid, it is the students' fault for not attending the events, say members of SAC.

Officers for the group were Debbie Davenport, president; Daneen Brison and Durst, co-chairpersons of publicity; David Usher, entertainment chairman.

Faculty sponsors for the Council were Debra Sawtelle and Steve Kirkham.

Valentine's Day dance finds Mike Baxter and Yvette Ligon having a good time in the decorated Student Union. This dance is one of the few "dress-up" dances held during the year. SAC sponsored both the homecoming festivities and the Valentine celebration on the campus.

Daneen Brison, El Dorado sophomore, and Mike Baxter, Augusta sophomore, reign as basketball homecoming king and queen. Brison was nominated by the women's basketball team and Baxter by the Honeybears. The king and queen won over a field of 21 candidates nominated by various organizations.

Honeybear dancers routine Butler performers

Butler County's Honeybear Dancers have evolved into a tradition for entertainment here on campus and in the area. For several years the Honeybears have been dancing in front of all types of appreciative crowds while representing Butler County.

Under the direction of Rebecca Johnson-Kuntz, the twelve-member dance group begins their routine career in June. Touring, dance schools and camps are all on the schedule for the dancers over the summer months — along with much practicing.

"In July we attended a session with Dance Olympic," said Kuntz. "Dancers from New York and California were in charge — they were a good experience for the girls and gave alot of professional assistance."

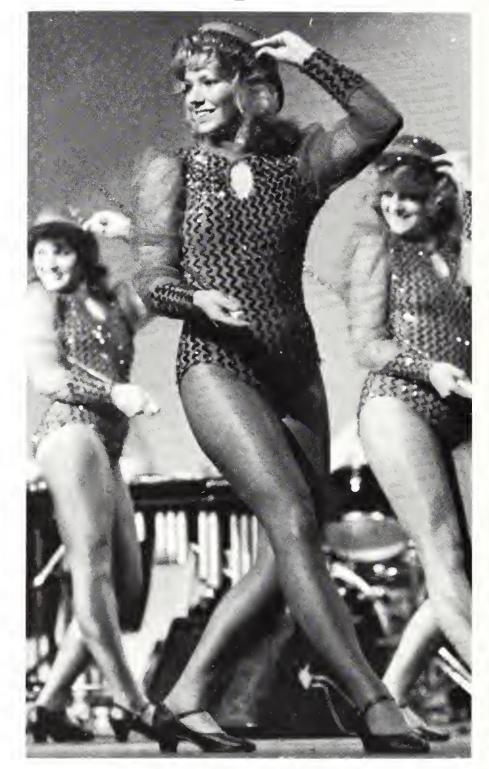

The Honeybear's first performance was in Kansas City at Worlds of Fun during July, though numerous community functions have been on the calender for the group's dance schedule.

As for campus performances, the Honeybears provide halftime entertainment for football and basketball games. They also are scheduled for two on-campus recitals — one in December, the other in May. A tour is also conducted by the group during the spring semester.

"We'll be doing twenty-eight recitals in April," said Kuntz. "Every school in Augusta, El Dorado and many others in the area will be visited. We try to go to as many schools in Butler County as possible."

Requirements for the Honeybear dancers include maintaining 12 hours at a 2.0 grade point average, attending all classes unless ill and (obviously) to learn the routines.

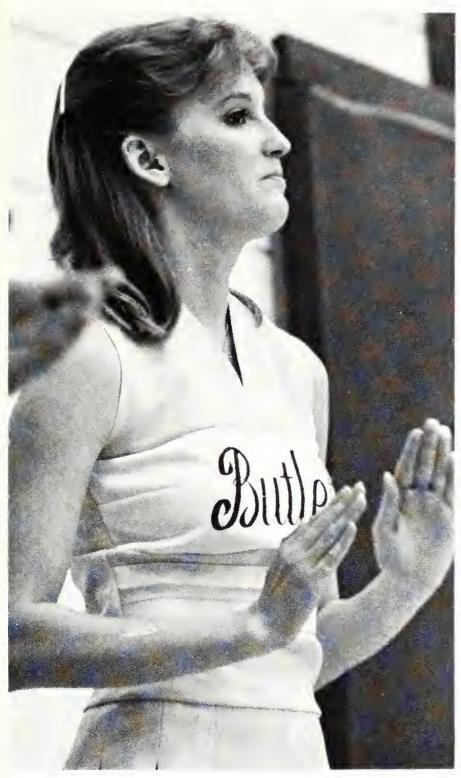

"We added something new this year," said Kuntz. "The girls have to pass evaluations prior to performance. Though one girl may have done well on one performance one week, she may not have another routine down as well. If she can't perform up to par, then she sits out. I think this helps with the quality of our performances."

Support demonstrated by cheerleading squad

Go to any Butler County football or basketball game and who would you see supporting the teams every time? Think you know?

Well, besides the regular rioting of the typical athlete's parent — the cheerleaders, yell leaders and the Butler Bears are the best answers to the question.

Though the spirit squad is required to go to as many games as possible, that doesn't seem to over-shadow the fact that the group enjoys their task. Dedication is the key word — proud is it's adjective.

The cheerleading squad and the Butler Bears seem to take a special interest in their work. The crew is definetly one of the better pep squads in the conference — they're together, look nice and represent Butler County well.

The Butler Bears play an important role for public involvement. They spend most of their time entertaining both the young and the old kids in the audiences during the games. Much respect and liking are shown towards the two fuzzy characters, who's routines are created by the themselves.

The spirit squad is put together in the spring of the preceeding academic year, just as the Honeybear Dancers are. Under the direction of Rebecca Johnson-Kuntz, the group practiced during the summer break, attend the National Cheerleading Association cheerleading camp and hosted one of their own on the college campus.

This year's squad consisted of only two yell leaders, but Kuntz hopes to up-date the men's ranks.

"Hopefully next year we will have a guy for every girl," said Kuntz. "That way we can have seven girls and seven guys next year."

SCJ charted for BCCC journalism students

Society for Collegiate Journalists was chartered on campus at a dinner on Oct. 5, 1984. SCJ is a non-profit organization operating on the campuses of acredited and recognized colleges, universities and institutes that award degrees on completion of two- or four-year programs.

David Adams, student publications director at Kansas State University, Manhattan, who serves as SCJ national president, and Diane Ashens, Butler's director of public information, installed the 14 charter members.

SCJ's first officers elected at Butler were Randy Ruark, president; Tom Morris, vice president; Terri Fowler, secretary; Brian Chambers, treasurer; and Nina Johansson, publicity and communications officer.

Bill Bidwell, journalism instructor, watches on as (left to right) Terri Fowler, Nicole Sauzek, Nina Johansson and Terry Bell repeat the SJC initiation oath. All were made members of the organization on Oct. 5th.

The Lantern, Butler's weekly student newspaper, chronicles the events of Butler County Community College and exerts a strong editorial influence. Circulation rose to more than 3,000 this year, paralleling steady enrollment increases.

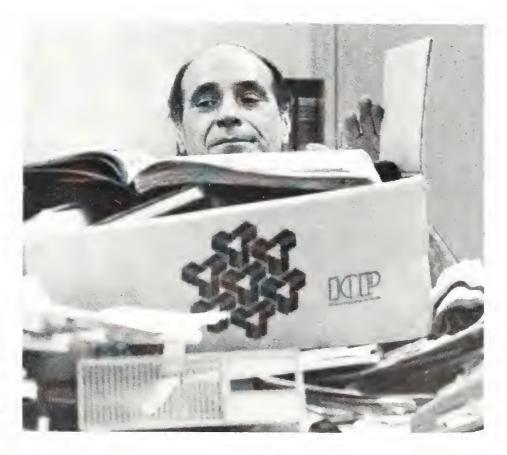

From early hands-on experience in The Lantern's ranks have come some outstanding journalists who have taken jobs with the Detroit Free Press, Denver Post, Topeka Capital-Journal, Miami Herald, ABC News in Lebanon, and The Associated Press, as well as daily and weekly newspapers, radio and TV stations around the country.

Lantern staffs are encouraged by adviser Bill Bidwell to practice in accordance with "a professional attitude" and with standards the same as those in the professional world. Staff decisions are made by the Editorial Board, composed of editors and managers.

Yearbook gets new electronic equipment

New "state of the art" electronic type setting equipment was purchased for the yearbook department and received in October to highlight the first semester for staff members of The Grizzly. After a few tentative starts, the students found the equipment useable and had the hang of floppy disks, codes, super shifts and other mysteries of the computer.

Second year students on the yearbook, Les Boada and Nicole Sauzek, were rewarded with an all-expense paid trip to the Collegiate Press convention in Louisville in October.

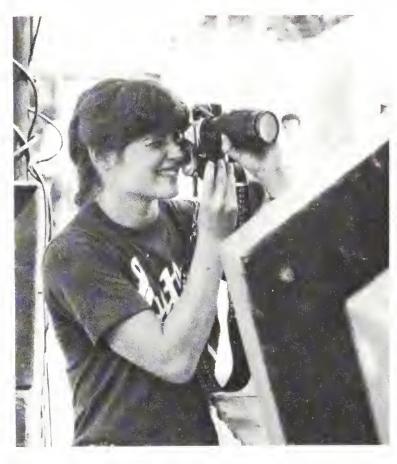

First semester editor, Phil Seager, did not return for second semester. Editorial responsibilities were taken over second semester by first semester returnees Alan Keely, Nicole Sauzek, Brian Chambers, and newcomers Scott O'Brien, Shawn Perry, and Larry Killer. Shannon Bender served as secretary both semesters helping to make a smooth transition.

Several Lantern staff members including Tom

Morriss, Tim Dower, and Kurt Bookout contributed to the book with copy and photos.

The yearbook at Butler now occupies an unique position in the state in that it is the only community college yearbook that has spring publication and is delivered before school is out in May. All the other colleges receive their books at the beginning of fall semester. The late delivery date enables those schools to have almost three extra months of preparation time over what the Butler staff has, said Jo Rogers, Butler's yearbook adviser. I flog the staff and they pedal faster than other staffs, said Rogers.

Staff members planned to attend a state journalism meeting and contest at Wichita State University in March where the book is entered in the state contest. Last year The Grizzly got a first place rating in the contest. Results of the competion are to be announced in the 32 page spring supplement of the yearbook which will come out in August.

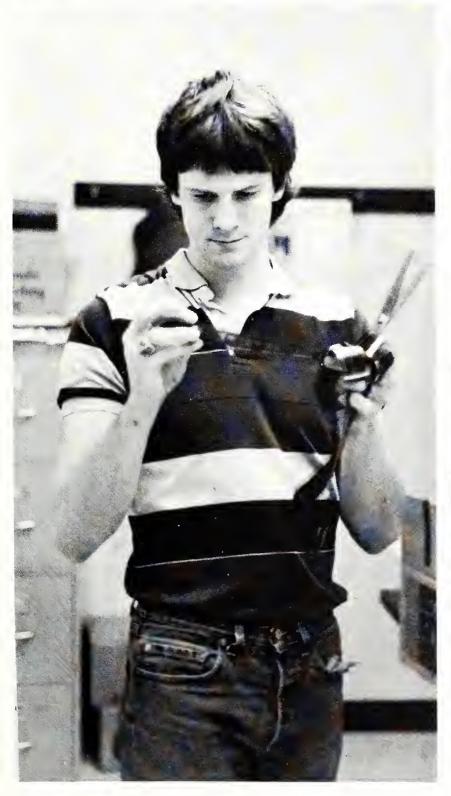

Nicole Sauzek, who writes, does graphics, and pastes up, also takes photos for The Grizzly. Shawn Perry is kept chained to the staff's new light table and is flogged if he tries to do anything besides paste up.

What would the college be like without a band? Very Quiet. Not many people outside the band realize how much time and energy is put out by band members. They are always there to support the Grizzlies at every home football and basketball game, and almost all away football games. This year, the Pep Band travelled to Garland, Texas to root on the Grizzlies to victory in the Garland Shrine Bowl.

The College Band performed three home concerts and 17 students from the band participated in the KACC convention held at Century II in Wichita in October.

The Jazz Band performed four concerts on campus, and were featured at the KACC convention in front of an audience of approximately 800. Along with touring area high schools, the Jazz Band was also featured at the Governor's Awards at the Kansas State Fair in Hutchinson.

Several jazz combos were formed this year, ranging in size from three to eight members. Since these groups are so small, the combo members are able to express their own musical talents, without being hampered by the strictness of a larger group.

Doug Talbott was the director of all instrumental music.

Vocalists sing far and often

The vocal music department at Butler was involved in an active year with many public appearances. The vocal department is divided into two main groups; Headliners, and College Choir.

The Headliners, with accompanists Candi Vogt, Herington sophomore, on piano, and Kevin Lawrence, Eureka sophomore, on percussion, are a select show choir with membership by audition only. Performances included four home concerts, community events, touring area high schools, and a trip to Reno, Nevada in the spring.

The group hosted a Pops Clinic in the spring where area high schools were invited to work with guest clinicians Fritz Mountford, former protege of Fred Waring, and Joan Walton, former choreographer for Cincinnati University. A concert was given for the public the evening of the clinic.

The College Choir, with accompanist Marge Marsh on piano, performed a variety of music including sacred, classical, pop, and Broadway. The group held four concerts on campus and attended the Community College Choir Day held at Colby in November.

Several members of the College Choir were involved in the fall musical, "Sugar."

This year, both a men's and a women's ensemble were formed. Accompanists included Marge Marsh for the men's and Pat Anderson for the women's. The ensembles performed a variety of music, with occasional choreography. The members are allowed more freedom than regular choir, as they are able to help pick the music, plus they can interpret the music to fit their individual styles.

All vocal music groups are under the direction of Linda Pohly.

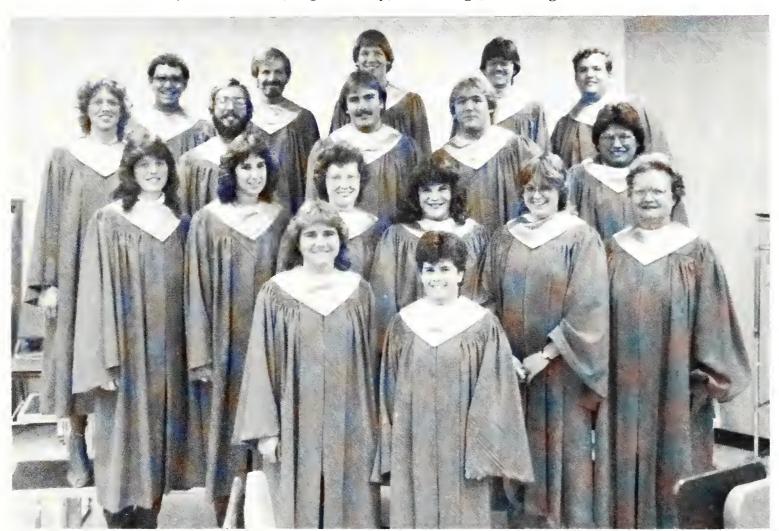

Candi Vogtgets ready to turn the page as she accompanies the orchestra for the fall musical, "Sugar." This musical was one of the few to utilize the orchestra pit in the Fine Arts Auditorium. Clinician Fritz Mountford performs during the fourth annual Pops Clinic held in February.

Intramurals provide for non-varsity competition

If a Butler County student likes sports, but does not want to participate in the varsity athletic programs, he has an alternative. Intramural activities are open to any student, faculty member, administrator, or employee of BCCC.

Fall semester activities included: flag co-ed football, mixed league bowling, tennis, horseshoes, badminton, volleyball, table tennis, racquetball, billiards, and shuffleboard. Spring semester offers basketball, chess, softball, archery, bridge, and golf.

Jeanette Malone, a Butler physical education instructor, became director of intramural activities in 1966. Back then, only men's basketball and co-ed volleyball were offered. Bowling and badminton were added in 1968, and new activities were added if enough students were interested. Student participation has increased steadily since the intramural program began. During the 1977-78 school year, 398 students participated in intramurals. Last year, a record number of 715 students were involved. This year's total should be even greater. (Exact figures for the 1984-85 season were not available at press time, and will be published in the spring supplement.)

Keep the rules. Keep faith with your comrades. Keep your temper--no profane language. Keep a stout heart in defeat. Keep your pride under victory. Keep a sound soul, a clean mind and a healthy body. These are the codes of sportsmanship which governs the intramural program.

Jeanette Malone

If one person is to be credited with the steady increase in intramural involvement, that person would be Jeanette Malone. The bulletin board behind Malone's desk in her office is almost a complete history of Butler County's athletic program. When she arrived at BC-CC in 1966, she started the Honeybear drill team, sponsored the cheerleading program, directed intramurals, and coached women's volleyball, basketball, and track. She also has served as physical education instructor for Butler County.

Malone has a bachelor of science degree in physical education from Kansas State University, and a master of science degree in physical education from Greely (Colo.) College. She began her career in 1943 at Marymount College, Salina, where she headed the physical education department for 23 years.

Ms. Malone enjoys serving the student body at Butler. She says, "The intramural program has really grown, and I try to let it be what the students want. It is the students' program."

The steady increase in involvement shows that the student body approves. Ms. Malone deserves credit for her involvement with the school. Her undying spirit is definitely appreciated.

Basketball intramural competition is hot with (upper left) the 7-Up team winning the round-robin. Lower left, the Rim Jobs move up from a fourth seeded position to win the play-offs and the championship in basketball intramurals. Above, Alyson Neely, bowls one of her expert games. She carries an average of 192, the highest in the intramural mixed bowling league.

The Snack Bar: a place to meet, eat, visit

The Library is not the only place to study
— ask any student who studies in the Snack Bar while grabbing a quick lunch or cup of beverage. Students and faculty alike frequented the Bar all year long oftentimes vieing for the few remaining chairs that are safe to sit on.

Pool tables and electronic games are also crowded into the area making for hazardous eating for the fellow sitting at the end of the table nearest the pool table.

The Snack Bar has been presided over by the unflappable Jackie Fishel for several years. Complaints are fielded by Jackie with good humor, the fact of which makes the Snack Bar a pleasant place to visit.

Academics still alive

Academics do play a part in life on the campus even though some students and instructors thought they did not this year with the emphasis put on athletics and other extra-curricular activities.

Instructors grumbled when their students had extensive absences while they were representing the school in sports, music, and drama. Yet the classes went on, and those students who really wanted to got caught up and made their grades.

With the declining number of high school graduates, the college had to think about other types of students. In response to this, the school hired a new coordinator of non-credit courses whose duty is to generate more hours in non-traditional types of courses with non-traditional students.

The average age of a student at Butler has now risen until it is almost 25 years of age. But even though the age is older, most of the students still enroll in the traditionally required subjects of English, mathematics, and science.

Cordelia Holem, English instructor, teaches an American literature class in the Nixon Library building. Trish Bouterse tramps through the snow to class. Masses of students line up for second semester enrollment trying to get the classes they want.

The Grizzly: The End of the Tail / The End of the Tale

The tale of the Grizzly (or the tail of the bear) for this year could be used for the script of a soap opera. So many bizarre things have happened with the staff that if we did not laugh, we would cry.

Things started out beautifully. For the first time in history, scholarships were awarded to students for working on the yearbook. One editor came from another county where he had been editor of his high school annual, another came from out of state where he had been an editor, and the graphics editor was also highly recommended. A perfect situation — we were to have the ultimate yearbook.

Two weeks into the semester, one editor was stabbed by a deranged person while shopping in a convenience store. He dropped out of school. A couple of months into the semester, another editor received a DWI and had the driver's license taken away. Two down. The editor-in-chief for first semester went home to Florida over the holidays; it was 0 degrees here and 70 degrees in Florida. Three down. Then a couple more staffers walked off into the sunset to find true happiness.

Second semester found three returnees and three new staff members, and a mountain of work left over from first semester. We were behind on our deadlines, but the new staff coped well under the encouragement of threats, floggings, begging, and cajolery on the part of the adviser who was on the verge of stress.

Thanks to many people in addition to the staff who wandered into the yearbook office mistakenly thinking it was an entertainment center and then stayed to contribute, the book will come out. We will try to mention all these great people who were Tom Sawyered into working, but some of their identities we never learned. We do appreciate their efforts.

Our original theme had to do with grizzly bears, so we hope you will bear with us as we bared our hearts to you in this the bear tale at the tail end of the Grizzly. And forgive us our puns.

Spring Supplement BCCC, 1985

Bill Cummins, dean of student services, is surrounded by a bevy of those whom he serves. Final examination week was marked by almost perfect weather which brought the students outside to study...or to play. Standing are (from left) Lori Bales, Jennifer Mossman, Michelle Hunt, Cummins, Shannon Potter, Kristi Regier, Cathy Hinz. Sitting are Diana Dunbar, Kim Dumler, Lori Jerrick, and Denise Davis.

Spring fling on campus

Summer arrived early at Butler with warm days in the nineties during final week. Some students squirmed through finals itching from sunburns acquired by greeting the sun's warn rays with stripped down bodies and not enough suntan lotion.

Students broke the stress of frantic studying by lolling outside the dorms and 8-plexes and enjoying the warm breezes.

Leslie Marr flings a Frisbee in her exuberance to salute spring. Clayton Whitfield (as well as everyone else within a mile radius) listens to his music box as he soaks up the sunshine. Some of the student housing residents give their salute to both spring and the college by forming a "BC" with their bodies. It was a warm and lighthearted final week of school.

Kristy Regier demonstrates her muscle-power by helping to support Lori Jerrick who is hanging from a branch of a tree on the campus. Both of them, residents of the 8-plex, are celebrating the warm days of May and the end of finals.

Long awaited journey captured by stunning men's tennis team

For the first time in College history, the men's tennis team has qualified for the National Junior College Athletic Association tournament which is scheduled for May 20-25 in Ocla, Florida.

Cran Chase, Bill Henn, Sergio Monsalve, Jeff Fahler, John Long and Darren McGilbray compose the NJCAA men's qualifying team.

"They had a great team effort. I am very, very pleased with them," head coach Curt Shipley said after his squad earned the initial trip to nationals.

The Grizzlies advanced to the NJCAA finals with a second-place finish at the Region 6 tourney played May 2 and 3 at Hutchinson.

Butler finished behind top-seeded Johnson County in the final standings to earn second place in the 14-team field.

"The top two teams qualify for nationals, and placing second was a happy experience," Shipley said.

Cowley County, champion of 16-straight regional tournaments, was ousted this year by Johnson County. This is the first time since 1969 that the Tiger netters haven't qualified for nationals.

"Our goal was to finish second and get to nationals," Shipley said. "Now, hopefully, we can get to nationals and score."

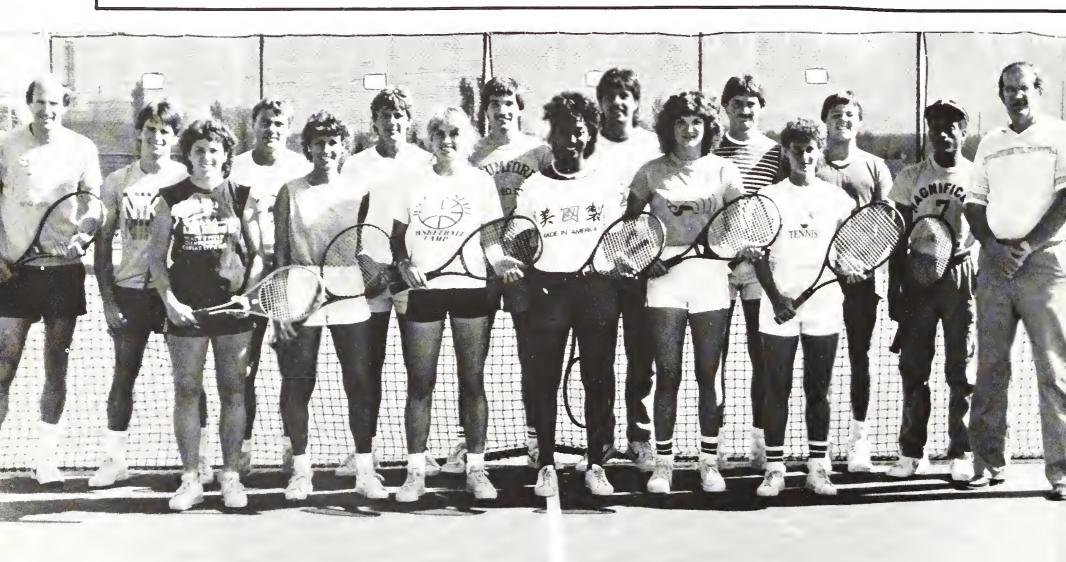

Experience was a big concern for the College women's tennis team. The "youthful" Lady Grizzlies failed to advance to nationals when they did not finish among the top two teams of their Region 6 tourney, also held at Hutchinson.

Janice Smith was Butler's main hope of qualifying at regionals in the No. 1 singles division, but she fell to the top seed in the semi-finals.

With only one sophomore on the team (Smith), the Lady Grizzlies lacked experience. The absence of "veterans" showed.

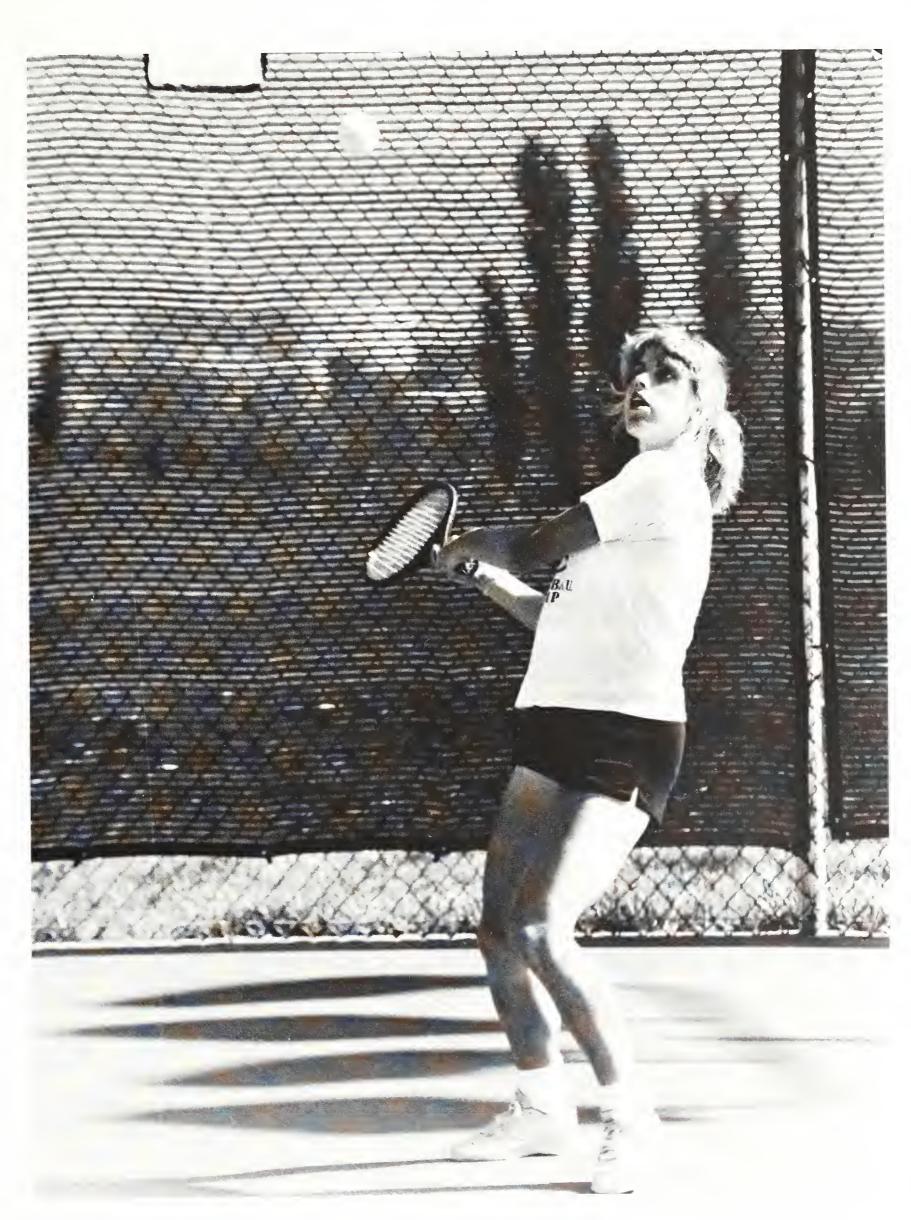

"They improved a lot over the season. We just didn't place well in the draws at regionals. When you have to play the number one or two seeds right off the bat, you're not going to win very many matches," Shipley said.

"Three of our girls are just beginners and should be excellent players next year," he added.

With tongue in cheek, Kandi Chilcott (Bluestem freshman) concentrates on her back-hand approach to the ball.

Tracksters provide quality season

Butler's track teams placed high in national competition at Odessa, Texas with eight men and women garnering places in the top fifteen in the nation. Kenny Nash placed first in the discus and shotput, Stacy Henson was second in the shotput, David McClellan was third in the triple jump, Jeff Reynolds was fourth in the 400 meter. Women winning for Butler included Rhonda Jones who placed sixth in the 100 meter hurdles; Liz MacLaird, seventh in the high jump; Trish Bahr, tenth in high jump; Susan Doman, fifteenth in discus. Darren Bohannon and Clayton Whitfield also went to nationals.

In March, the men's team placed sixth over-all and the women's team tenth overall in the National Junior College Athletic Association indoor championships held at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville.

The Butler men's team was paced by the performances of Kenny Nash and Stacy Henson in the shotput. The two tracksters finished one, two in the event. Nash won the championship with a toss of  $52\frac{1}{2}$ , and Henson took second with a 49-7 effort.

Only six Grizzlies represented the Butler men at the NJCAA finals, compared to 12 national qualifiers last year, but the team held their ground and finished only two places away from last season's fourth-place effort.

Other Butler men thinclads placing at nationals were Phil Buffington, who tied for fifth in the high jump, and Duke Reed placed fourth in the 1000-yard run.

"Everybody performed well. This is the fourth time we have placed sixth at nationals, and we also beat Hutch and Garden City. I'm happy," said head coach John Francis.

In the women's division, Rhonda Jones took second took second in the 55-meter hurdles to lead the Lady Grizzlies to a three-way tie for tenth place.

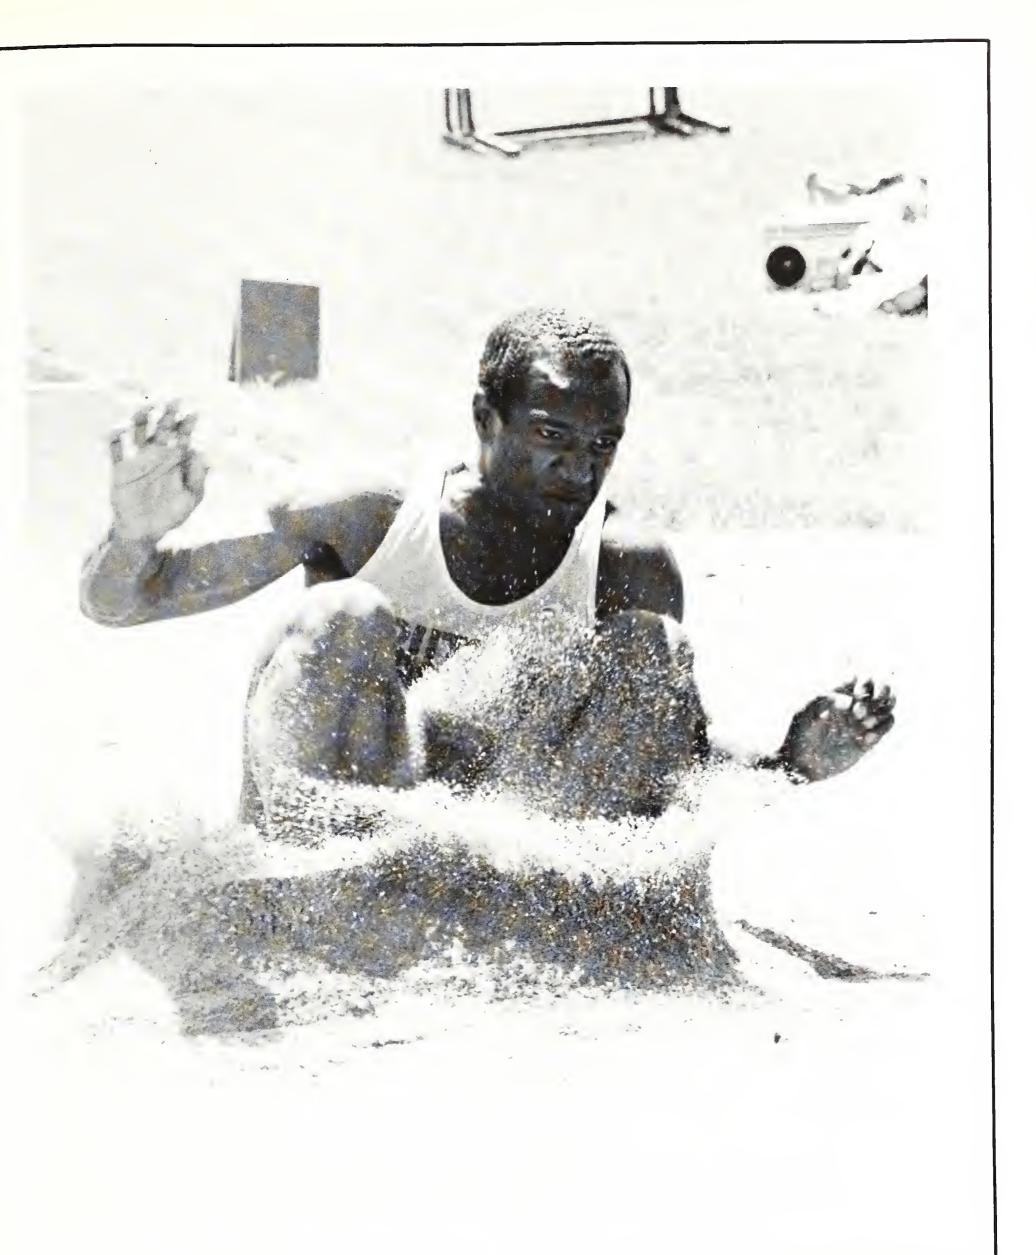

Says Francis when asked about outdoor nationals, "We performed when it counted in the indoors. We have a talented young team and are strongest in the shot put."

"This is the second time in the last two years that we have placed in the top 10. That says a lot for out program," women's coach Tonya Kerschner said.

Trish Bahr, the other Lady Grizzly qualifier, placed ninth in the high jump.

Butler Grizzly tracksters Mark Jones, Liz MacLaird, and Trish Bahrgive their expressions of who is the best in their book — Butler County track.

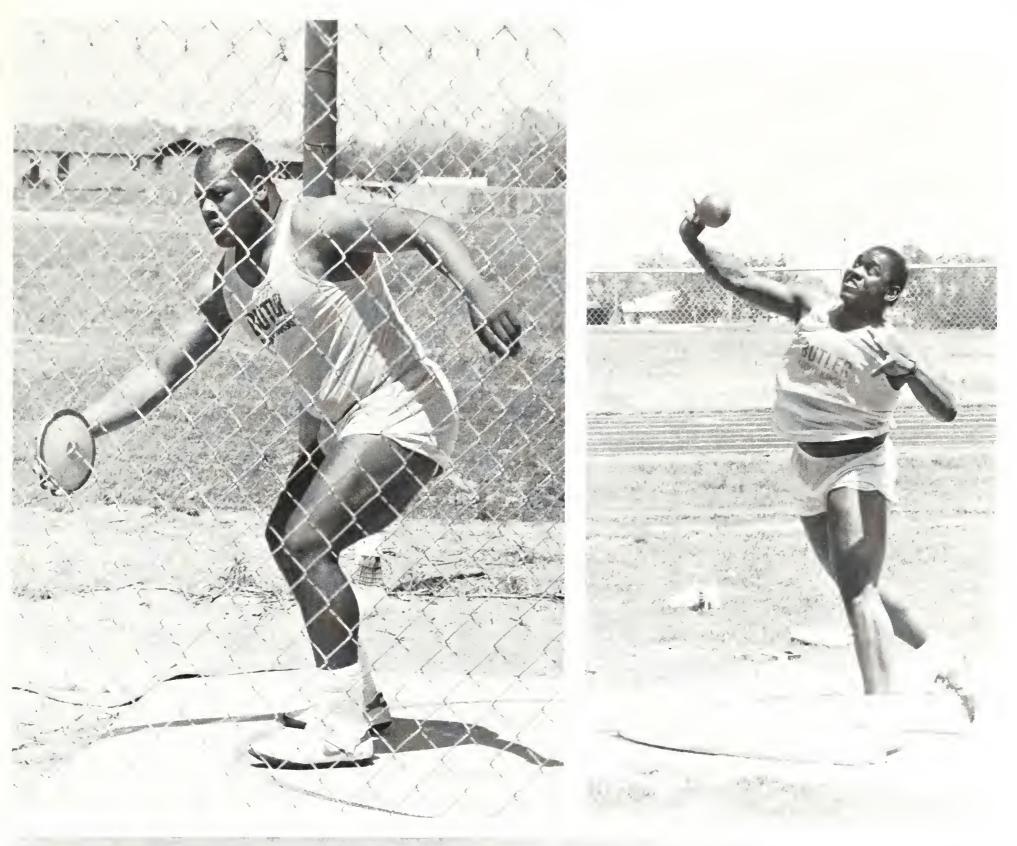

Grizzly triple jumper David McClellan lands in the pit during the competition at the Region 6 meet May 4 at Garden City. McClellan traveled to Texas with the rest of his qualifying teammates to participate in the NJCAA outdoor meet.

Liz MacLaird (upper left) flys through the air in search of a qualifying jump, one goal of which MacLaird accomplished as she traveled to the outdoor national meet in May. (Upper right) Soaring over the bar is Kelly Evanson. Evanson is a freshman on the Butler track team. Phil Buffington (right) another freshman on the track team, keeps an eye on the high jump standard while propelling himself over the bar. Buffington tied for fifth place in the indoor nationals at Fayetteville.

Ken Nash (upper left) puts himself in the right state of mind before hurling the discus many feet away. Nash has been an outstanding Butler trackster for the Grizzly squad, qualifying for all four national meets in his two-year campaign. (Upper right) Stacy Henson, shotputthrowing sidekick to Nash, musters all strength for his throw. Henson also is a member of the Grizzly football team. (Left) Greg Blaske looks on as Jeff Walkertries to relax after straining his leg during a race. Walker pulled up halfway through the event in pain because of sore muscles.

Linksters dominate Region 6 and KJJC

In its last two outings, Butler's golf team won Region 6 tournament and conference championship honors.

At Rolling Meadows Country Club in Junction City, the Grizzlies easily won the 36-hole tournament, qualifying them for the NJCAA tournament in LeHigh, Florida this June.

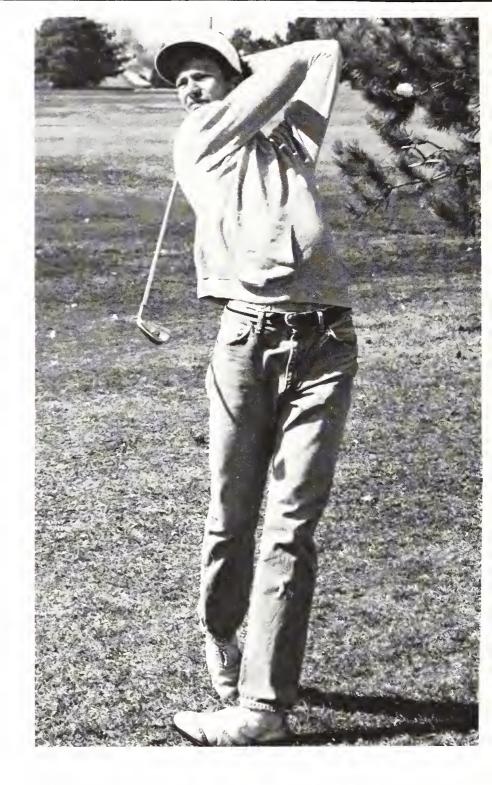

The Butler golfers also secured the Jayhawk Juco Conference championship. The Grizzlies maintaned a comfortable lead over all other conference foes and finished the season out with a 7.5 point defecit over the second place team, Dodge City.

Darren Copp, one of Butler's standout golfers, finished the 1984-'85 season as the conference's overall best player. Copp was named to the first-team all-conference list along with teammate Steve Regier, who came in second.

Regier made one other landmark move over the season when he earned the right to be medalist at two consecutive conference meets.

As a team, the Grizzlies' most phenominal finish was during the Kansas City, Kan. tournament. The entire team sank a final score of 446. Averaged out individually, the Grizzlies' team score was 111 strokes per golfer — or an average of 37 per nine holes of golf. But, still another surprise during the tourney was the medalist race. The number one, two and three slots were filled by Butler golfers; Regier, Ty Butler and Mike Osborne, respectively. Head coach Felix Adams couldn't recall a better day of golf in his five years of coaching at Butler.

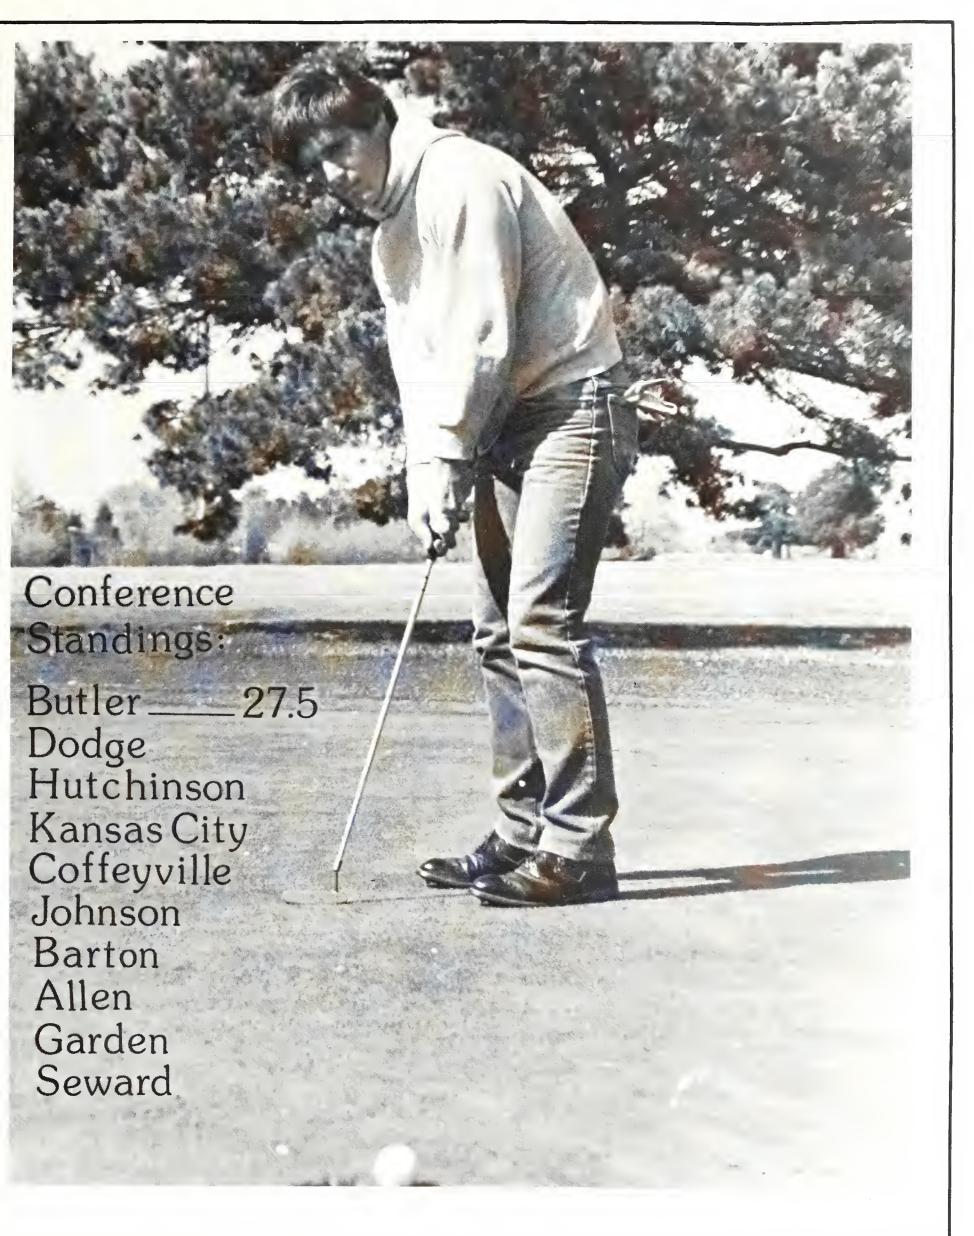

"I wasn't exactly looking for us to win the championship, so it was a nice surprise," Adams said. "I'm proud of all of my golfers. They've certainly shown that they deserve all that they've won."

Ty Butler follows through with his swing and his contribution to the Grizzly team. Butler is one of two leading sophomore golfers coached under a successful Felix Adams.

The KJJC's number one golfer, Darren Copp, takes a well rewarded time comsuming practice debts were paid off when he was named to casual putt during one of the Grizzlies' daily golf practices. Copp's the first-team all-conference list.

Softball season ends with 9-11

Butler's women's softball team completed the season with a 9-11 record and a fifth place finish in the Region VI tournament.

The Lady Grizzlies went into the regionals ranked seventh, and defeated number two seeded Cloud County in the quarter-finals, having already defeated Garden City with an impressive 10-1.. But in the next game, Butler fell to the third-seeded Barton County. Then Highland College eliminated the Lady Grizzlies.

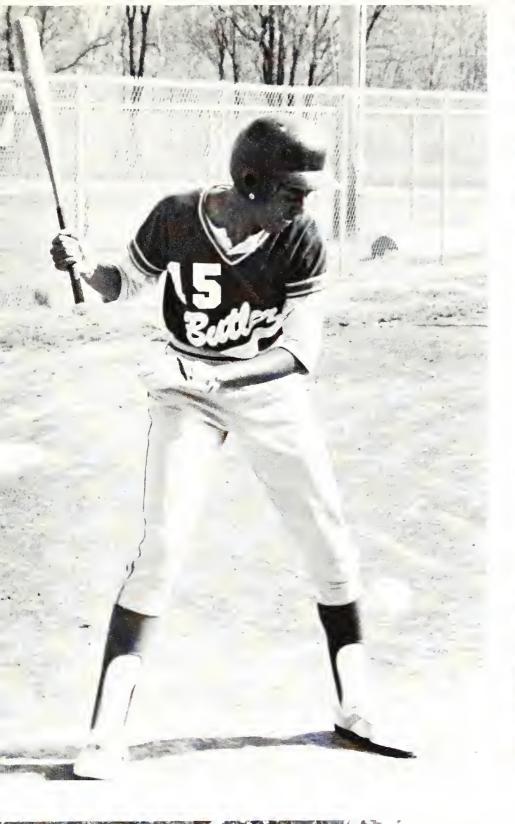

"We had a very young and inexperienced team, and considering that, we had a decent season," said head coach Debbie Sawtelle. Coach Sawtelle said that she was especially proud of the fact that three of her players made the All-Academic Region 6 team. They included Cathy Hinz,4.0 grade point average; Diana Dunbar, 3.81; and Denise Davis, 3.81.

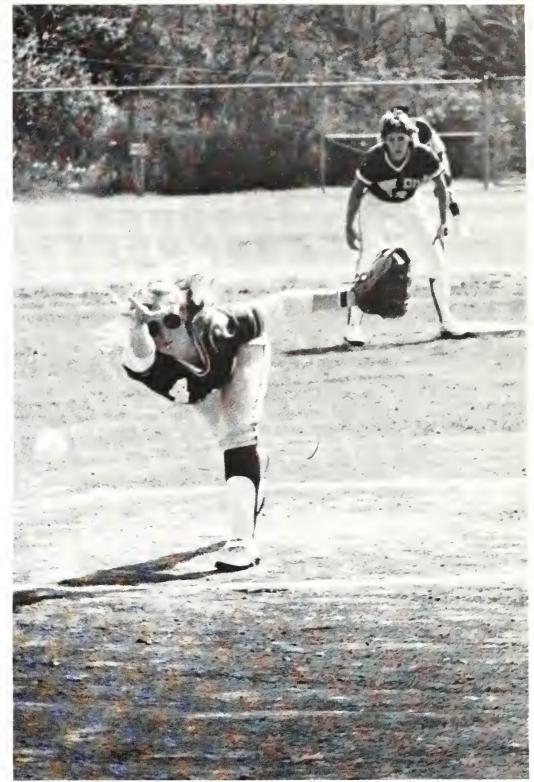

Elaine Johnson, one of Butler's pitchers, gets a lot of credit for contributing to the season, according to Sawtelle.

Six games scheduled for the Lady Grizzlies were cancelled due to rain and were not rescheduled resulting in a light season for the women.

Sarah Balzer was assistant coach.

Sluggers nab championship

The Grizzly baseball squad proved to be a fighting contender this season, as the team won the Western Division Championship and were runner-ups in state playoffs.

Kansas City Kansas Community College stopped the Grizzlies in the state playoffs, defeating BCCC 8-7 in the third game of a best-of-three series.

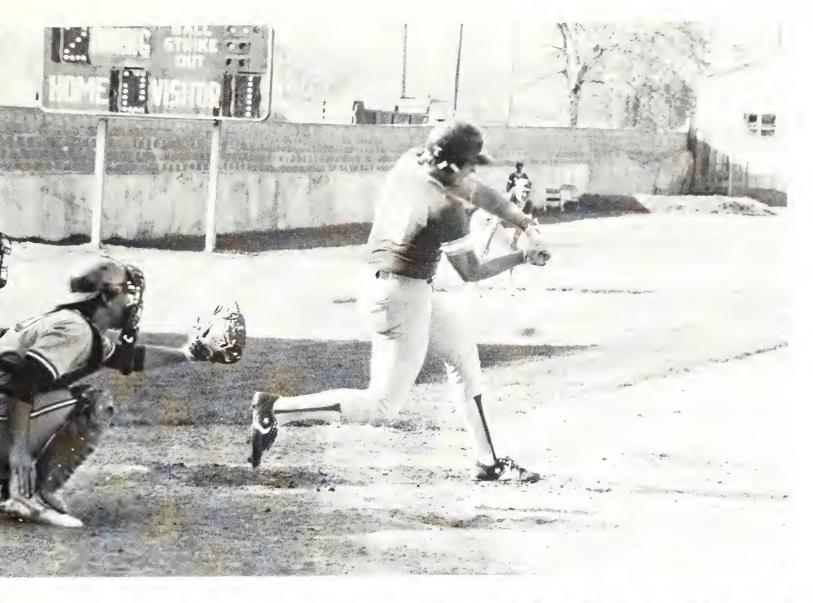

Sophomore Lyle Befort was the club's leading pitcher, boasting a record of 7-3 and a 2.64 earned run average. Befort was selected by the California Angels of the American League Western Division in the third round of January's major league draft. Kelly Zane, Wichita freshman, led the hitting attack with a .370 batting average, ten home runs, and 48 RBI's. John Byrn, Lawrence sophomore, hit .360, 12 home runs, and knocked in 52 runs.

The Grizzlies finished with a 29-16 record. Head Coach Rick Dreiling said, "This year's Grizzly team exceeded all expectations of the coaching staff. At the start of the season the quality of the club was questioned. They showed us and achieved much more than we expected.

Baseball team members, front row left to right, include:
John Byrn, Kris Decker,
Larry Lang, Lyle Befort.
Second row: Kelly Zane,
Rocky Helm, Jason Harrel,
Tom Campa, Eric Pearson,
Scott Norlin, Bob Fornelli,
Rob Busby, Russell Moore.
Third row: Rob Doshier, Pete
Gil, Steve Carvajal, Mike
Klotzbach, Scott Seratte,
Bryan Lesperance, Don Varner, and Dan Lanzrath.

Stretched to the limit is Rob Busby, Hays sophomore, as he delivers the perfect pitch at a recent baseball game.

Trying to advance the runners, Eric Pearson, Newton freshman, squares to bunt for the Grizzlies.

Retirees honored by colleagues

Joy Choens The Grizzly, 1970

Choens The Grizzly, 1985

Charles Fuller The Grizzly, 1951

Fuller The Grizzly, 1985

Two retirees from the college, Joy Choens and Charles Fuller, with a combined service of 55 years were honored at a dinner given by their colleagues and associates at the Student Union in May.

Fuller arrived in El Dorado in 1949 as a biological science instructor for both the high school and the junior college; he was still teaching biological science when he retired in May.

Choens started teaching for the college in 1967 on a part-time basis but went fulltime in 1969 when she helped establish the Adult Basic Education Center. She was coordinator for the Center and its satellites when she retired.

Ed Walbourn, first president of Butler County Community College and now the retired director of the Kansas Association of Community Colleges, came from Topeka to give the address honoring Choens and Fuller. Walbourn's address was often humorous as he told anecdotes about both the honorees.

Other colleagues including biological instructor Phil Theis, who shared an office with Fuller for 17 years, also gave tribute to the retiring employees.

Both retirees were given gifts by their friends and associates at the dinner.

Several former employees of the school returned from out of town to help honor their friends.

Fuller said that he plans to spend his time fishing in Missouri, and Choens said that she has many plans afoot some of which include traveling with her husband.

When Fuller was kidded about his coming life of only fishing, he said, "Yeah, I'll probably get tired of it and wish I was back here." Close friends of Fuller who know his fishing habits doubt that statement.

Walbourn concluded by saying, "With both of them, teaching was their profession...it was a way of life with a high priority."

'Excursions'

Excursions into History made its fourth annual appearance on Butler's campus on May 4 with its theme as "Whistlestops: Echoes of America."

The day's events focused on the history of the American railroad with numerous exhibits and events. Included in the exhibits were collections of railroad insignia, dining car menus, railroad artifacts, conductor buttons, depot post cards, and other memorabilia.

Various model train exhibits were displayed by collectors from throughout the area. A caboose was located on the campus for inspection, and caboose rides were given in another caboose which was pulled behind a truck.

The day-long event was climaxed in the evening by a musical tribute given to railroading and its history.

Women dressed as Harvey Girls served food throughout the day.

This year's Excursions into History had the largest attendance yet, according to Dr. Larry Devane, director of the event, with approximately five thousand people on campus.

Mary Ann Christensen was the Excursions coordinator.

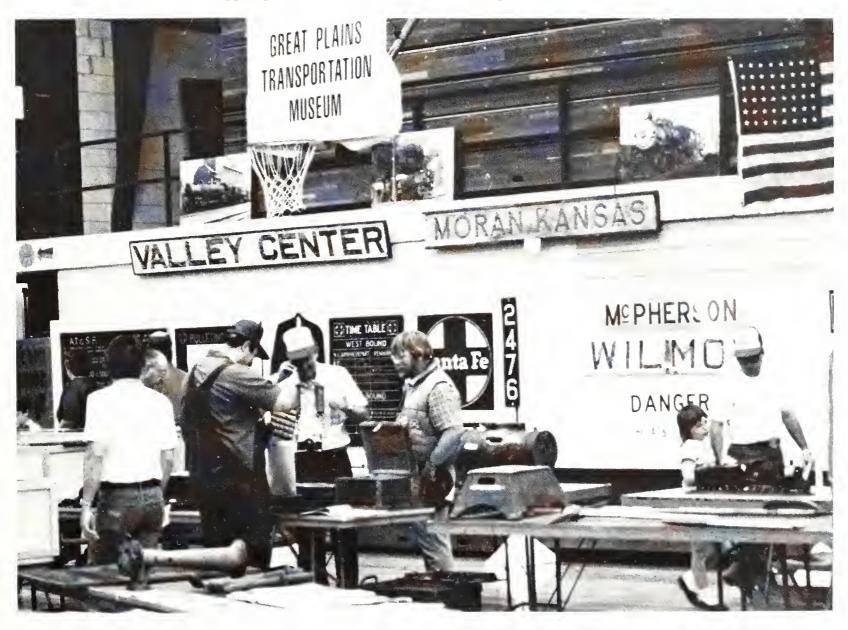

Railroad telegraphy is explained to visitors (upper photo) to "Whistlestops" by Bill Bidwell, a college instructor. Lower photo, a depot hack or taxicab from 1928 is of interest to many of the people visiting the campus for Excursions.

Participants spice concert

New dimensions were added to the Colleg Choir's and the Concert Band's spring concert with lively participation from unexpected sources such as the college president and other administrators.

President Carl Heinrich rode across the stage on an undersized bicycle complete with training wheels and the dean of finance, Phil Arnold, portrayed former President Richard Nixon and a "hippie" out of the sixties.

Assistant football coach and dormitory parent Rick Neubauer gave a ballet performance. Larry Patton, humanities division chairman, emceed the concert and gave some impromptu dances.

Doug Talbott, band director, and Linda Pohly, vocal director, put together the performance but gave credit to many other people--both students and faculty.

The theme for the performance was "Potpourri: A Chronology of Popular Music." Butler Bears and Honeybears lent their talents to the shows.

Though the musicians played the major roles in the production, the side shows during the performance provided for extra entertainment for the full house packed into the Auditorium.

Talbott said, "It was great how other people were willing to get into the act. It was neat the way students worked so hard then saw an audience show its appreciation so well."

Pam Freeman, Wichita freshman, uses a "mirror" for her musical rendition of "Second Hand Rose." President Carl Heinrich rides a bicycle with training wheels across the stage as "Tijuana Taxi" is played by the band

Phil Arnold, dean of finance and operations, and Dana Griffith, Augusta freshman, enliven the spring musical concert as they dance their version of "the twist." Larry Patton, chairman of humanities and fine arts department, directs the audience in singing "Clementine."

'Elephant Man'

Butler County's final drama production of the year was "The Elephant Man," which ran May 2-4 in the Fine Arts Auditorium. Drama instructor Bob Peterson directed the play, which was originally written by American playwright, Bernard Pomerance.

"The Elephant Man" is a true story, based on the life of John Merrick (played by Scott Schwemmer, Andover sophomore). Merrick, a monstrously deformed man, lived in the days of Victorian England. He was rescued from a freak show in 1886 by Frederick Treves (Donald Gilliland), a surgeon at London Hospital. Merrick's head was so deformed, he had to sleep sitting up. He died in his sleep in 1890 when his head tumbled backward, allowing his tongue to cut off his breath.

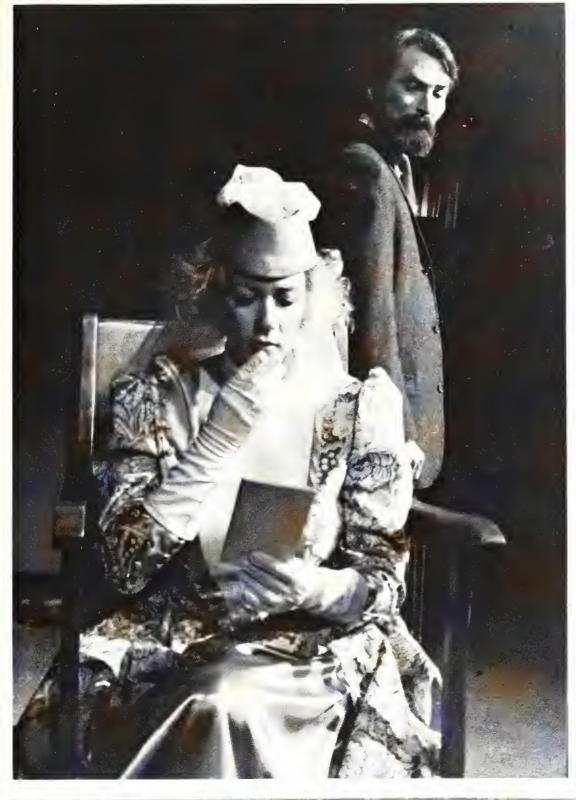

While Merrick stayed at the hospital, Dr. Treves had trouble finding a nurse to take care of the deformed man. Mrs. Kendal (portrayed by Lynette Cody), pretends to enjoy Merricks's company to please the surgeon.

Butler's production of "The Elephant Man" is similar to the original, which also gave each performer additional roles. However, the individual playing Merrick was only given that role. Amy Chisman, Wichita sophomore, took on three roles (pinhead, Miss Sandwich, and Duchess), and Greg Bales, Yates Center sophomore, played the Belgian policeman, London policeman, and Lord John. In all, twenty roles were portrayed by ten performers.

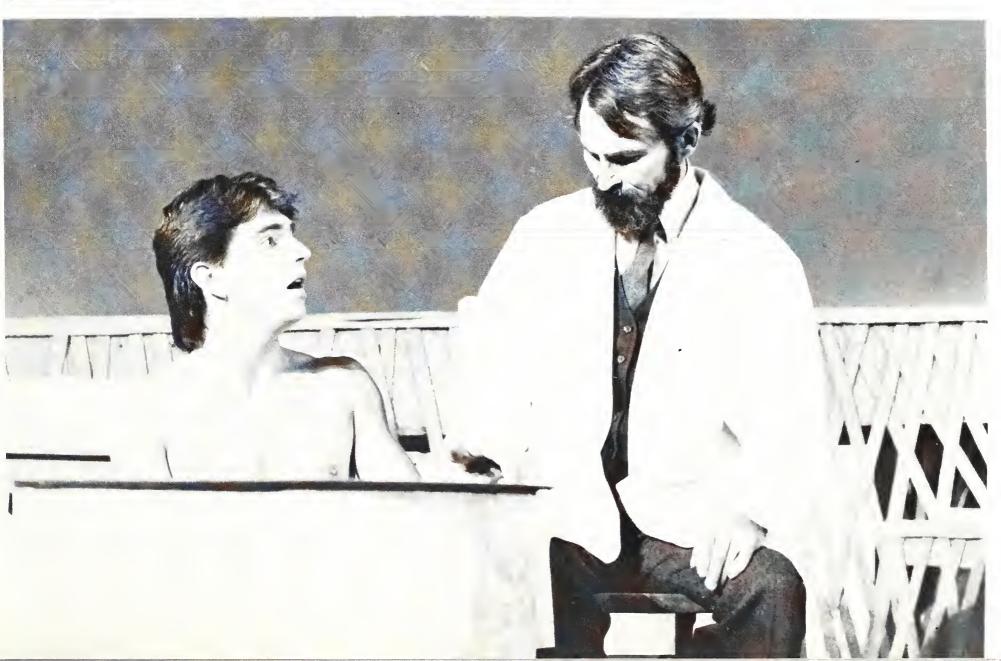

Other roles include: Alisa Bridge as pinhead and Princess Alexandra; David Dwire as Carr Gomm and Conductor; Pam Freeman as pinhead and Countess; Tom Middlestadt as pinhead manager and Henry; James Valdez as Ross, Bishop How, and Snork.

Honors and awards were bestowed to students at Butler ranging from "best actor in a theatre production" to the "Order of the Gold" for students who achieved a straight 4.0 grade point average.

Some of the awards amounted to cash scholarships up to a thousand dollars or more, and some of the awards were plaques and medals and certificates. Some of the honors and awards bestowed were state-wide in competition, and some were campus competition only.

A total of only three students achieved what is considered the highest personal achievement any student can attain: a straight 4.0 grade point. Lael C. Capps, Cynthia E. Cox, and Velma K. Davisgraduated with this honor.

Capps also received the Helen Teter Zebold award for outstanding science student, and the newly created R. D. (Dee) Hubbard award for the outstanding graduating sophomore, a $1200 cash award.

The Cron award given to the outstanding history student had two recipients this year: Christopher Cowan and Jimna Knapp.

On the state level the journalism department achieved the highest level among the 12 competing community colleges. The staff of The Lantern under the guidance of Bill Bidwell won the "All Kansas Honor Rating" for the total paper.

the highest rating given by the Kansas Association of Journalism Advisers. Lesmes Boada was first semester editor and Nicole Sauzekwas second semester editor.

The Grizzly was awarded the first place rating on the state level. Jo Rogers, yearbook adviser, was named outstanding yearbook adviser for the year by KAJA.

Pamela Wilder was named "outstanding art student" on the campus for the year. Amy Becker and Shivaun Chism were the sophomore recipients of the major Coutts Memorial scholarships. Lori Van Tuyl and Bill Davis were the freshmen who received Coutts scholarships. Kelly Peters received a $400 scholarship from the El Dorado Art Association.

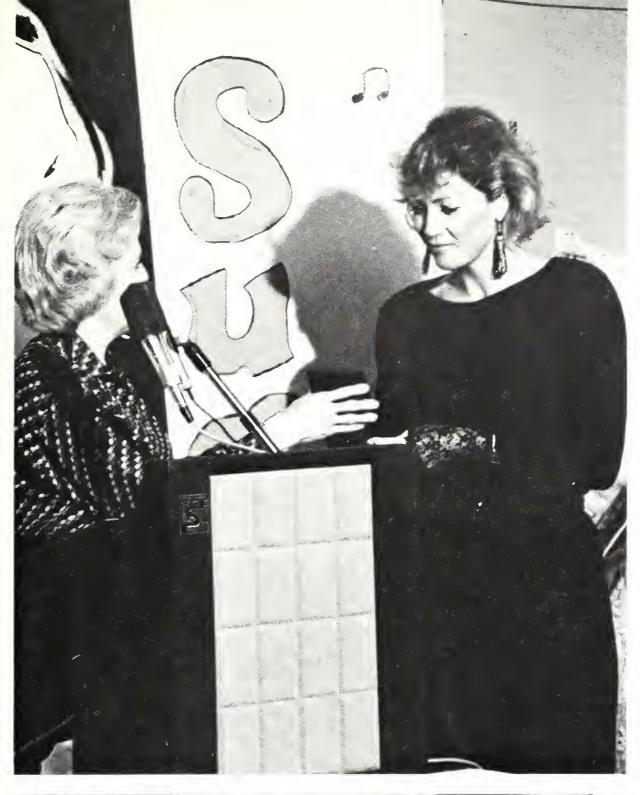

Delta Psi Omega at its awards banquet named Lynette Cody as "best actress" for her role in "The Elephant Man." Scott Schwemmer was named "best actor" for his role in the same play. Best supporting actress and actor awards were made to Lisa Johnson and Jon Henrich.

"Intramurals All Stars" honors were won by ten students: Dennis Pearman, Kevin Bass, Scott Shriner, Kurt Bookout, Lawrence Rice, Milton Balzer, Sharon Sand, Jason Bratcher (super star with 99 points), Jeff Turner and Tim Castor.

commence the program. Burch was the speaker for the dinner.

Lynette Cody (right) receives the Best Actress award from Vera Belle Perry of the Wichita Association of Repertory Arts. Theatre awards were given out at the Delta Psi Omega spring banquet in May.

Pamela Wilder is congratulated by Robert Chism, an art instructor, for being named the outstanding art student on the campus for the year.

Honor students recognized

Approximately thirteen percent of the college student body qualified for the honor of Order of the Purple or for the first time Order of the Gold when 62 students were honored at a May dinner in the Student Union.

A student with a grade point average of 3.5 or better has the Order of the Purple bestowed upon him or her. Students with a 4.0 grade point average were honored with Order of the Gold.

Eligibility requirements in order to be honored were raised from a minimum 3.25 grade point average of last year to the new average of 3.5.

Speaker for the dinner was Pat Diamond, president of the Kansas State Board of Nursing and vice president and director of nursing at Hutchinson Hospital Corporation. Presenting certificates medallions and plaques were Charles Fuller and John Woltz.

Exclusively designed medals by Rebecca Johnson Kuntz were awarded to Order of the Purple recipients. Designer of the Order of the Gold medals was student Bill Davis.

Lael Capps received the Helen Teter Zebold award for the outstanding science student at the dinner. Chris Cowan received the Frank Cron award for history.

Cindy Hoss and Pat Lowrance, speech instructors, headed the committee that planned the dinner and program.

Final determination of who receives the Order of the Purple and Order of the Gold awards will not be completed until the spring semester grades are turned in and the registrar's office completes the final audit.

(Those students who will receive the honor after the final audit will be listed on page 164.)

Lael Capps receives congratulations from Gayle Krause, chairman of the division of mathematics and physical science, on Capps receiving the Order of the Gold for his straight 4.0 grade point average. Capps was also the

384 graduate

Degrees were granted to 384 students at the annual commencement services held in the Field House on May 18.

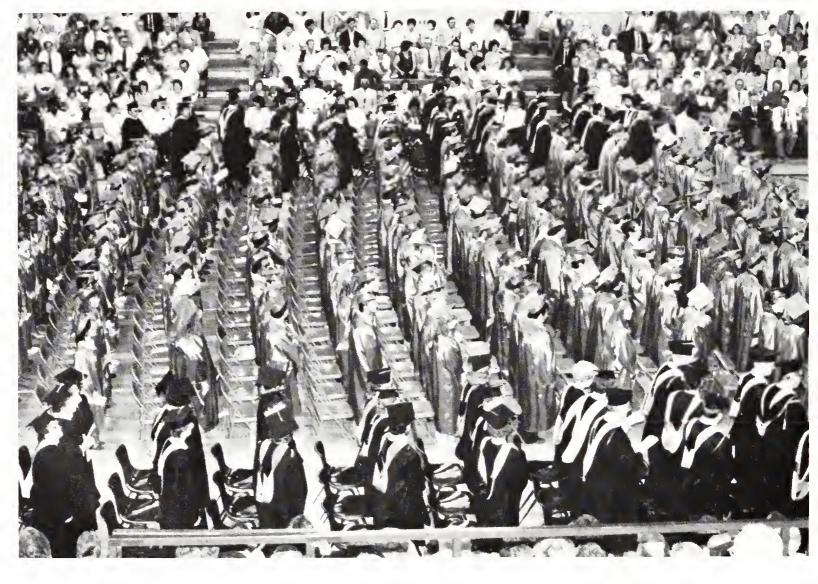

The commencement address was given by R. Dee Hubbard, a 1956 graduate of the college who is now chairman of the board of AFG Industries. AFG is the fourth largest producer of flat glass in the nation.

Hubbard pointed out in his address that he attributed his success to long hours and hard work with plenty of initiative. While attending Butler, he played on the basketball team and worked at the Skelly Refinery to support his family. Hubbard has been honored by Wichita State University as an outstanding businessman with the R. Dean Hubbard Hall on the university campus.

Three students graduated with 4.0 gradepoint averages; they were Lale C. Capps, Cynthia E. Cox, and Velma K. Davis.

Presentation of the degrees was made by F. Greg Mathias, chairman of the Board of Trustees. The processional was played by the Butler County Community College Brass Ensemble. Vocal music was provided by the College's Ladies Ensemble accompanied by Pat Anderson on the piano and Anita Seivley on the flute. The Reverend Bob Meanor, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation and the benediction.

R. Dee Hubbard gives the commencement address on May 18 to an overflow crowd of faculty, administrators, and friends and relatives of the graduates gathered in the Field House for the 2 p.m. ceremony.
